NORTHWEST FARM RELIEF ADVOCATES MEET

SENATOR McNARY OF OREGON IS SOON COMING TO ST. PAUL

IS CO-AUTHOR OF THE WELL KNOWN McNARY-HAUGEN
BILL

HIS HERALDED ARRIVAL THURS-DAY IS SIGNAL FOR ACTIVITIES

St. Paul, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Farm relief advocates of the northwest today were getting into action for another of the numerous conferences to advance their beliefs and expectations.

The scheduled arrival next Thursday of Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon, co-author of the McNary-Haugen bill, was the signal for the activities.

Leaders of the movement for agricultural relief legislation in this section of the country will hold a conference with Sen. McNary.

"A strengthened method of approach in presenting the McNary-Haugen bill at the next session of congress will result from Thursday's conference," J. F. Reed, president of the Minnesota Farm Bureau federation, declared.

The persons planning the conference are agreed that reports of the capitulation of Sen. McNary to opponents of the McNary-Haugen bill were untrue.

"The equalization fee will not be dropped as a feature of the proposed measure," Frank W. Murphy, Wheaton, Minn., chairman of the board of the American Council of Agriculture, said in a discussion of plans for the conference Thursday.

12 CHARGED WITH CONSPIRACY TO VIOLATE GAME LAWS

Duluth, Minn., Oct. 22.—(UP)—Charges against 12 persons suspected by the state game and fish department of complicity in a conspiracy to violate the state game and fish laws, will be laid before the district court grand jury November 2, it was indicated here today. Five of the persons under suspicion are connected with the department, some of them game wardens and state trappers, it was said.

Charges ranging from alleged conspiracy to illegally trap animals protected by state laws, steal or trap animals from state refuges and the sale of furs are to be under fire.

5 YEAR OLD LAD HAS BULLET TAKEN FROM HIS HEART

Lima, O., Oct. 25.—(UP)—Harold Wreede, 5 years old, of Delphos, Ohio, was growing stronger in a hospital here after having a bullet removed from his heart.

The bullet was lodged in the boy's heart sac when he accidentally discharged a .22 calibre rifle. An X-ray examination showed the location of the pellet and an immediate operation was performed. The boy remained conscious from the time he was wounded until affected by the anesthetic.

Minnesota Authorities Want Return of George F. Bowen

St. Paul, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Illinois authorities today were asked to grant return to Minnesota of George F. Bowen, wanted at Bird Island, Renville county, for passing a worthless check.

Gov. Theodore Christianson also requisitioned for the return of T. J. Dixon, alias T. J. Attaberry, held at Anamosa, Ia. Dixon is wanted in Hennepin county on a grand larceny charge.

MINIMUM WAGE ORDINANCE IN DULUTH CONSIDERED

Duluth, Minn., Oct. 25.—(UP)—The proposal for a minimum wage ordinance in Duluth will be defeated when it comes up for final passage, it was indicated at a city council meeting held Monday. Three of the five members of the city commission are said to be opposed to the measure.

Fall Sketched As Sparring in National's Behalf

HOME OF DISTRICT ATTORNEY MONDO WRECKED BY BOMB

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 25.—(UP)—The home of Assistant District Attorney Charles J. Mondo was wrecked by a bomb early today.

Mondo was out of the city. Other members of the family were hurled out of their beds by the blast, which was heard for blocks. The entire front of the house was blown in, and windows in dwellings of several blocks away were broken. The inmates of the house, while badly shaken up and bruised, were not seriously injured.

Two theories are being investigated by the police. The first is that the bombing was an act of political enemies, and the second that the bombing was an act of sons who recently have been prosecuted by Mondo.

PARALYZED, HE LIVED THREE WEEKS IN A FOREST

GROVER McGOVERN, FORMER
ST. THOMAS COLLEGE FOOT-BALL STAR, TELLS STORY

PLUNGED OVER 25 FOOT EM-
BANKMENT AND INJURED
HIMSELF

Chicago Bay, Minn., Oct. 25.—(UP)—How he lived for three weeks in a forest, alone and suffering from paralysis, was told today by Grover McGovern, former St. Thomas college football star.

Nearly a month ago, McGovern set out from here on a timber cruise. He planned to look at lake shore property along the border.

One day he slipped and plunged over a 25-foot embankment. His back was injured and he was paralyzed. Without protection, he lay in a downpour of rain for two days. His knapsack contained enough food to last for three weeks, and also a sleeping bag, but he was unable to move to the sack. Finally he managed to crawl into the sleeping bag.

Then began a slow, painful process of recovery.

"I seemed to get better gradually, after I got into the bag," he said. "I could brew tea and prepare food. I knew there wasn't a chance of anyone coming along."

"It looked like the end of things for me. I was 40 miles from Chicago Bay. Believe me I did some praying as I lay there."

McGovern's food stores became low after two weeks had elapsed and he decided to try the walk back to civilization.

"It took me six days," he said, "and it was torture."

Mrs. Catherine Cassler

Granted Another Stay

Chicago, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Mrs. Catherine Cassler, under sentence to be hanged Friday, today was granted a 60-day stay of execution to permit an appeal to the supreme court.

In granting the stay, Superior Court Judge Phillip Sullivan said he believed much of the current crime in America was due to judicial delays and that he did not believe a delay was necessary in this case, but added that he felt a person sentenced to be hanged was entitled to every possible safeguard against a miscarriage of justice.

Mrs. Cassler was convicted of participation in the insurance murder of William Lindstrom.

CHARGED WITH OFFENSE AGAINST 9 YEAR OLD GIRL

Washington, Oct. 25.—(UP)—William B. Robinson, 50, chief of the nation's prohibition investigators, today offered his resignation as the outgrowth of charges that he committed an offense against a 9-year-old girl. His resignation was accepted without comment.

Colorado Enters Upon its Second Week of I. W. W. Coal Strike, Paralyzing Production

2 HOUR QUAKE HIT ALASKA, CABLE DISRUPTED

DESCRIBED AS MOST SEVERE
SINCE SANTA BARBARA
TREMOR OF 1925

BELIEVED TO HAVE OCCURRED
WITHIN 200 MILES OF JUNEAU

Washington, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Officials of the U. S. coast and geodetic survey today were awaiting confirmation of their belief that yesterday's severe earthquake in Alaska did little actual damage.

They were hoping that cable service, reported disrupted by the series of quakes, would be restored, enabling them to hear from Alaskan cities direct.

The quake was described here as probably the most severe since the Santa Barbara tremor of 1925. By geometric calculations from widely separated seismographs, the survey officials located it in the Fairweather mountain range in the central portion of Alaska, within 200 miles of Juneau and Valdez.

The disturbance lasted more than two hours. Father Tondorf of Georgetown University, said the quake shook the needle from his seismograph here.

Yakutat, a village of several hundred inhabitants, directly in the supposed quake area, is the only community likely to have been seriously affected, according to survey chiefs.

SLIGHT TREMORS FELT AT SITKA

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 25.—Reports of earth tremors centering in the vicinity of Sitka, Alaska, yesterday were received at the navy radio station here today.

The reports indicated the tremors were of comparatively slight intensity. They accompanied a much more violent quake which was recorded on seismographs throughout the United States for more than two hours early Monday.

In the vicinity of Sitka it was distinctly felt for nearly 15 minutes, according to information received by the navy radio. Windows rattled and dishes were jarred from shelves. A number of inhabitants of Sitka rushed from their homes in their night clothing.

During the night the local radio station was in communication with the Admiral Rodgers, then 75 miles out of Sitka. The operator of the Admiral Rodgers said the quake was reported from several smaller towns in the territory near Sitka.

There was apparently no serious damage in the vicinity of Sitka, according to advices to the navy radio station here.

Cable communication lines of the United States army signal corps between Wrangell and Ketchikan were interrupted by the quake, the radio station was informed.

While direct reports from Wrangell were lacking, it appeared the quake was felt with more severity there than at Sitka.

RUSH REPAIRS TO ALASKAN CABLE

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 25.—The Alaskan cable ship Dellwood will sail from Seattle tonight to rush repairs on the Alaska cable, broken yesterday between Ketchikan and Wrangell and between Juneau and Skagway by an earthquake that shook southeast Alaska.

The center of the disturbance is believed to have been 200 miles south of the island of Kodiak.

The United States army radio station here had no further word from the quake area than the dispatches which told of the tremor being felt in the principal cities of southeastern Alaska.

No damage was reported aside from the breaking of a few windows and dishes. Residents in Juneau fled from their homes when the disturbance began, the army radio reported.

The earthquake was recorded so

SAN FRANCISCO MAY CONTEND FOR G. O. P. CONVENTION

New York, Oct. 25.—(UP)—San Francisco was named as a likely choice for the 1928 republican national convention by Charles D. Hilles, vice president of the party's national committee, upon his return from discussion with leaders at Washington.

Other cities seeking the convention are Detroit, Kansas City, Chicago, Minneapolis and Cleveland, Hilles said. Selection will be made at a meeting of the national committee in Washington in December.

MRS. GRAYSON MAY HOP OFF TOMORROW

OPTIMISTIC AVIATOR STILL IN-TENT ON COPENHAGEN
FLIGHT

SIKORSKY PLANE TO HAVE NEW MOTOR IN PLACE
SHORTLY

Old Orchard, Me., Oct. 25.—(UP)—Mrs. Frances W. Grayson and her two companions may hop off in the amphibian plane "Dawn" for Copenhagen tomorrow or Thursday, according to T. Harold Kinkade, the Wright motor expert.

Kinkade estimated that the Sikorsky plane would have one new motor in place before nightfall today, and that the craft would be ready for its fourth attempt at a trans-Atlantic flight soon after. He admitted that ground and aerial tests might require considerable time tomorrow.

Because of engine trouble Sunday the Dawn was forced to turn back to Old Orchard after it had reached the Nova Scotia coast on its third take-off.

Despite the numerous discouragements, Mrs. Grayson and her co-fliers are determined to make the flight this season if possible, she said last night.

Moscow, Oct. 25.—Leon Trotsky, former co-dictator of Russia's 140,000,000 people, went under total eclipse today.

He was even threatened with loss of his last connection with official soviet Russia—ordinary membership among hundreds of thousands of people in the communist party.

Shorn of all power, dismissed from the executive committee of the communist party as well as of the government, Trotsky was hissed and booed as he tried to make a final speech at a convention here of the communist executive committee.

violently at the University of Washington that the seismograph needle was thrown off its cylinder.

The naval station at Bremerton reported today that no word of earthquake damage had been received and operators declared it was doubtful if the tremor had been that severe.

WORK HALTED IN VIRTUALLY ALL LOCATIONS

STRIKE LEADERS TO PRESENT
THEIR SIDE TO GOV. WIL-LIAM H. ADAMS

BELIEVED IN OFFICIAL CIRCLES
HE IS WILLING TO ARBI-
TRATE STRIKE

Denver, Colo., Oct. 25.—(UP)—As Colorado entered the second week of the I. W. W. coal strike which has paralyzed production in virtually all fields in the state, a hope of settlement by mediation was seen here today.

Strike leaders announced they would appear before Governor William H. Adams at 10 A. M. tomorrow to place their side of the case before him.

The governor has expressed readiness to receive them and it was believed in official circles that he is willing to arbitrate the strike.

Although K. Clemens, Lafayette strike leader, sent a message to the governor assuring him that there will be no violence anywhere in the state, Thomas Annear, state industrial commission chairman, said that the longer the strike continues, in his opinion, the greater likelihood there would be of trouble.

Jubilant over success of picketing yesterday, which precipitated the first violence and prevented 700 miners from going to work, strikers announced they would turn out today to picket mines of Huerfano and Las Animas counties.

Announcement that strike leaders will meet the governor brought cheers at an I. W. W. meeting at Walsenburg last night.

Roger Francezon, national executive chairman of the I. W. W., said he regarded the proposed conference as recognition of the I. W. W. on the part of Adams.

"A new day has dawned in Colorado. We have won over the entire state. When the wage demands of the miners are granted here, the I. W. W. will move on to Kansas and Oklahoma and arouse workers there to demand higher pay," Francezon said.

One hundred or more miners from northern fields planned to join a motor caravan to go to Freemont county in an attempt to get miners there to join the strike.

Meanwhile coal dealers announced that a shortage of both bituminous and lignite coal threatened Denver. While the situation is not serious now, it will become critical unless the mines are opened within a week, it was predicted.

MAKING VOYAGE THAT RIVALS FAIRY TALE

Washington, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Somewhere on the Mississippi river, Truman G. Hinds, 62, is making a voyage that rivals a fairy tale.

An official report to coast guard headquarters today stated Hinds set out from Muskegon, Mich., to go by water to Texas in a 10 foot leaky, battered skiff.

Off St. Joseph, Mich., his trail craft capsized in a lake storm and he was saved by guardsmen.

"I needed a bath," was Hinds' appeal after he was dragged from Lake Michigan. He got it. His craft was rescued, he was re-outfitted and then the guard gave him a tow to Chicago.

Hinds entered the Chicago drainage canal and is now en route down the Mississippi to Texas. Officials estimated he would reach Houston or Galveston some time next year as it took the traveler more than 30 days to get from Muskegon to St. Joseph, Mich.

DENIES MEN SHOULD DIE AFTER PASSING 35

Washington, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Will Durant, noted author and philosopher, did not say most men should die after passing 35 years of age.

He has made that clear following publication of a symposium of prominent Americans' views of his recent magazine article in which he remarked men ought to die at their zenith—but do not.

A publicity agent linked this observation with two others—"most men at forty are but a reminiscence," and "at thirty-five a man is at the height of his curve"—to arrive at the deduction that Durant felt most men should die after 35. The context, however, showed Durant had no intention of advocating any such process.

FRENCH TROOP OF SENEGALESE AIDS RESCUE

TO GAIN BY FORCE RELEASE OF
SIX EUROPEANS HELD
PRISONER

HOSTILE MOORS AT BENI MAL-
LAL, MOROCCO, ARE AG-
GRESSORS

Casablanca, Morocco, Oct. 25.—(UP)—A battalion of French Senegalese troops left today to rescue by force the six Europeans held captive by hostile Moors at Beni Mallal.

French authorities were hopeful that the abductors would be captured within a short time.

The European prisoners held by the Moors are Yves Steeg, nephew of Theodor Steeg, French resident general in Morocco; Jean Maillet, Baroness Steinhell, Mme. Prokory, her daughter, and the two daughters of M. Arnaud who with his wife was killed recently by raiders.

Friendly natives reported to the French military authorities that all the prisoners were safe, but that Maillet and Steeg were chained and under close guard.

The Senegalese troops which have gone to their rescue will be remembered by those who saw them in the world war. They used to cut off ears of men they killed and keep them as souvenirs. Often they would take one out of their pockets at a cafe or moving picture theatre and offer it in lieu of money as the price of admission or a drink.

Even aside from the fact that four women were prisoners in the mountains of Morocco, the French military authorities were anxious quickly to rescue the Moors' prisoners because of indications that the kidnappings were the signal for sporadic outbreaks among hostile tribes that soon might develop seriously.

The Foreign Legion, crack troops of the French Moroccan forces, prepared to avenge the killing of three of their number by tribesmen who ambushed a food column being sent to supply an outpost.

Simultaneously negotiations were being conducted for safety's sake with the captors of the six Europeans. Their ransom demands were regarded as impossible. It was admitted, though officials refused to divulge the terms.

But authorities were hopeful of rescuing the prisoners, in order to raise French prestige to where it was a few months ago when Abd El Krim, noted Moorish leader, admitted himself defeated after months of heavy fighting against French and Spanish forces, and the country became quiet.

Any suspicion of weakness it was feared, might be the signal for a renewal of rebellion.

FEDERAL NARCOTIC AGENTS TAKE TWO FRENCH SMUGGLERS

Washington, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Federal narcotic agents today captured two French smugglers attempting to enter St. Albans, Vt., with 750 pounds of gum opium valued at $1,000 a pound, Col. L. G. Nutt, government narcotics investigator announced. The seizure is the largest opium capture in years.

DEFTLY PAINT FALL AS AT-
TEMPTING TO GUARD NA-
TION'S INTERESTS

By HERBERT LITTLE

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Oct. 25.—Former Secretary of Interior Albert B. Fall was sketched in court today as having sparred constantly in the government's behalf while signing the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve over to Harry F. Sinclair.

Lawyers for Sinclair and Fall, who are seeking to disprove charges that the two made the lease in a plot to defraud the government, deftly painted Fall as attempting to guard the nation's every interest in the lease negotiations.

By lengthy cross-examination of A. W. Ambrose, one of the oil experts who in 1922 helped Fall draft the lease, the defense elicited a statement from Ambrose that it was a "business transaction"—with Fall and Sinclair dealing at arm's length.

A deposition by the late J. W. Zevely, Sinclair attorney, stating that Fall and Sinclair talked about the Teapot Dome lease at Fall's ranch New Year's day, 1922, was produced by the government. The defense produced a cross-examination deposition in which Zevely said there was argument between the Teapot Dome lease negotiators on "nearly every part of the lease."

Ambrose said he did not know whether Fall or Secretary of the Navy Denby was chiefly responsible for the lease. The prosecution side of Zevely's testimony stated Secretary Fall decided the controversial questions of the lease.

NORTH DAKOTA SEARCHING FOR BANK ROBBERS

Bismarck, N. D., Oct. 25.—(UP)—State authorities today requested the aid of officers in adjoining states in the search for robbers who late yesterday held up and robbed two banks, and escaped with loot estimated at $3,500.

At Minnewaukan, three officers and a customer of the First National Bank were held at bay while bandits ransacked the safe of the bank and escaped in an automobile.

An hour later the Bank of Niagara was held up and robbed of a sum estimated today at $500. The bank officers were ordered to open the safe, then were forced to lie on the floor until the masked men had scooped up the loot, most of which was silver coin, and escaped.

Pretty Young Wife of Chain Store Magnate Files Divorce Action

New York, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Mrs. Doris Mercer Kresge, pretty young wife of Sebastian S. Kresge, chain store magnate, has filed a divorce action as the latest procedure in their tangled marital affairs.

Mrs. Kresge previously was suing for a separation.

The chain store head had brought suit for divorce in Michigan but had agreed to await determination as to whether the New York courts had jurisdiction over his matrimonial litigation.

No details of Mrs. Kresge's new suit were revealed. It has been placed in the calendar for Nov. 7.

Although K. Clemens, Lafayette strike leader, sent a message to the governor assuring him that there will be no violence anywhere in the state, Thomas Annear, state industrial commission chairman, said that the longer the strike continues, in his opinion, the greater likelihood there would be of trouble.

Jubilant over success of picketing yesterday, which precipitated the first violence and prevented 700 miners from going to work, strikers announced they would turn out today to picket mines of Huerfano and Las Animas counties.

Announcement that strike leaders will meet the governor brought cheers at an I. W. W. meeting at Walsenburg last night.

Roger Francezon, national executive chairman of the I. W. W., said he regarded the proposed conference as recognition of the I. W. W. on the part of Adams.

"A new day has dawned in Colorado. We have won over the entire state. When the wage demands of the miners are granted here, the I. W. W. will move on to Kansas and Oklahoma and arouse workers there to demand higher pay," Francezon said.

One hundred or more miners from northern fields planned to join a motor caravan to go to Freemont county in an attempt to get miners there to join the strike.

Meanwhile coal dealers announced that a shortage of both bituminous and lignite coal threatened Denver. While the situation is not serious now, it will become critical unless the mines are opened within a week, it was predicted.

MAKING VOYAGE THAT RIVALS FAIRY TALE

Washington, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Somewhere on the Mississippi river, Truman G. Hinder, 62, is making a voyage that rivals a fairy tale.

An official report to coast guard headquarters today stated Hinder set out from Muskegon, Mich., to go by water to Texas in a 10 foot leaky, battered skiff.

Off St. Joseph, Mich., his trail craft capsized in a lake storm and he was saved by guardsmen. "I needed a bath," was Hinder's appeal after he was dragged from Lake Michigan. He got it. His craft was rescued, he was re-outfitted and then the guard gave him a tow to Chicago.

Hinder entered the Chicago drainage canal and is now en route down the Mississippi to Texas. Officials estimated he would reach Houston or Galveston some time next year as it took the traveler more than 30 days to get from Muskegon to St. Joseph, Mich.

DENIES MEN SHOULD DIE AFTER PASSING 35

Washington, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Will Durant, noted author and philosopher, did not say most men should die after passing 35 years of age.

He has made that clear following publication of a symposium of prominent Americans' views of his recent magazine article in which he remarked men ought to die at their zenith—but do not.

A publicity agent linked this observation with two others—"most men at forty are but a reminiscence," and "at thirty-five a man is at the height of his curve"—to arrive at the deduction that Durant felt most men should die after 35. The context, however, showed Durant had no intention of advocating any such process.

FRENCH TROOP OF SENEGALESE AIDS RESCUE

TO GAIN BY FORCE RELEASE OF
SIX EUROPEANS HELD
PRISONER

HOSTILE MOORS AT BENI MAL-
LAL, MOROCCO, ARE AG-
GRESSORS

Casablanca, Morocco, Oct. 25.—(UP)—A battalion of French Senegalese troops left today to rescue by force the six Europeans held captive by hostile Moors at Beni Mallal.

French authorities were hopeful that the abductors would be captured within a short time.

The European prisoners held by the Moors are Yves Steeg, nephew of Theodore Steeg, French president general in Morocco; Jean Maillet, Baroness Steinhell, Mme. Prokhorov, her daughter, and the two daughters of M. Arnaud who with his wife was killed recently by raiders.

Friendly natives reported to the French military authorities that all the prisoners were safe, but that Maillet and Steeg were chained and under close guard.

The Senegalese troops which have gone to their rescue will be remembered by those who saw them in the world war. They used to cut off ears of men they killed and keep them as souvenirs. Often they would take one out of their pockets at a cafe or moving picture theatre and offer it in lieu of money as the price of admission or a drink.

Even aside from the fact that four women were prisoners in the mountains of Morocco, the French military authorities were anxious quickly to rescue the Moors' prisoners because of indications that the kidnappings were the signal for sporadic outbreaks among hostile tribes that soon might develop seriously.

The Foreign Legion, crack troops of the French Moroccan forces, prepared to avenge the killing of three of their number by tribesmen who ambushed a food column being sent to supply an outpost.

Simultaneously negotiations were being conducted for safety's sake with the captors of the six Europeans. Their ransom demands were regarded as impossible, it was admitted, though officials refused to divulge the terms.

But authorities were hopeful of rescuing the prisoners, in order to raise French prestige to where it was a few months ago when Abd El Krim, noted Moorish leader, admitted himself defeated after months of heavy fighting against French and Spanish forces, and the country became quiet.

Any suspicion of weakness, it was feared, might be the signal for a renewal of rebellion.

FEDERAL NARCOTIC AGENTS TAKE TWO FRENCH SMUGGLERS

Washington, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Federal narcotic agents today captured two French smugglers attempting to enter St. Albans, Vt., with 750 pounds of gum opium valued at $1,000 a pound, Col. L. G. Nutt, government narcotics investigator announced. The seizure is the largest opium capture in years.

WHEN HE SIGNED OVER LEASE TO HARRY F. SINCLAIR

LAWYERS FOR SINCLAIR AND FALL SEEK TO DISPROVE
DEFAUDING CHARGES

DEFTLY PAINT FALL AS AT-
TEMPTING TO GUARD NA-
TION'S INTERESTS

By HERBERT LITTLE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Oct. 25.—Former Secretary of Interior Albert B. Fall was sketched in court today as having sparred constantly in the government's behalf while signing the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve over to Harry F. Sinclair.

Lawyers for Sinclair and Fall, who are seeking to disprove charges that the two made the lease in a plot to defraud the government, deftly painted Fall as attempting to guard the nation's every interest in the lease negotiations.

By lengthy cross-examination of A. W. Ambrose, one of the oil experts who in 1922 helped Fall draft the lease, the defense elicited a statement from Ambrose that it was a "business transaction"—with Fall and Sinclair dealing at arm's length.

A deposition by the late J. W. Zevely, Sinclair attorney, stating that Fall and Sinclair talked about the Teapot Dome lease at Fall's ranch New Year's day, 1922, was produced by the government. The defense produced a cross-examination deposition in which Zevely said there was argument between the Teapot Dome lease negotiators on "nearly every part of the lease."

Ambrose said he did not know whether Fall or Secretary of the Navy Denby was chiefly responsible for the lease. The prosecution side of Zevely's testimony stated Secretary Fall decided the controversial questions of the lease.

NORTH DAKOTA SEARCHING FOR BANK ROBBERS

Bismarck, N. D., Oct. 25.—(UP)—State authorities today requested the aid of officers in adjoining states in the search for robbers who late yesterday held up and robbed two banks, and escaped with loot estimated at $3,500.

At Minnewaukan, three officers and a customer of the First National Bank were held at bay while bandits ransacked the safe of the bank and escaped in an automobile.

An hour later the Bank of Niagara was held up and robbed of a sum estimated today at $500. The bank officers were ordered to open the safe, then were forced to lie on the floor until the masked men had scooped up the loot, most of which was silver coin, and escaped.

Pretty Young Wife of Chain Store Magnate Files Divorce Action

New York, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Mrs. Doris Mercer Kresge, pretty young wife of Sebastian S. Kresge, chain store magnate, has filed a divorce action as the latest procedure in their tangled marital affairs.

Mrs. Kresge previously was suing for a separation.

The chain store head had brought suit for divorce in Michigan but had agreed to await determination as to whether the New York courts had jurisdiction over his matrimonial litigation.

No details of Mrs. Kresge's new suit were revealed. It has been placed in the calendar for Nov. 7.

Lesson No. 2
Question: Why do underweight children need and realize so much benefit from emulsified cod-liver oil?
Answer: Because it provides a vitamin-rich food that nourishes efficiently and helps thin children put on weight. It's known worldwide as

RUTH ELDER IS PLANNING NEXT YEAR'S FLIGHT

CAPTAINS HALDEMAN
AND PINTO

GIRL AVIATOR ASKS MANY QUES-TIONS REGARDING WEATHER CONDITIONS

Aboard the Steamship Lima, at Sea, Oct. 24—(By wireless to United Press, delayed)—Already planning her trans-Atlantic flight for next season, Ruth Elder spent much time today with Capt. George Haldeman, her co-pilot, and Captain Pinto, of the Lima, studying the ship's charts.

She questioned Captain Pinto at length regarding weather conditions at sea, and later retired to her cabin "to digest it all."

Miss Elder returned to the bridge for exercise before dinner.

The Lima is due to dock at Lisbon, Portugal, at 5 P. M., Tuesday.

Lisbon, Oct. 25.—Lisbon has donned its festive decorations in preparation for the arrival of Ruth Elder and Capt. George Haldeman, who are scheduled to land here at 5 P. M., today from the Portuguese steamer, Lima.

Civil, military and naval organizations will participate in the welcome.

The Heinkel plane, D-1220, piloted by Horst Merz, may take off today before the aviators of the American Girl arrive. Merz said a new tank had been installed and that the plane would hop off today if possible for the Azores.

CONDITION VERY SERIOUS

A. B. Anderson Struck by Car Friday Night Fails to Regain Consciousness

The condition of A. B. Anderson, unconscious in St. Joseph's hospital with a fractured skull received Friday night when he was struck by a car driven by Benjamin Klugman while crossing South Sixth street was reported very critical today with chances of recovering diminishing.

Presbyterian Circle No. 2 Circle No. 2 of the Presbyterian aid will meet with Mrs. C. A. Erickson, 1001 13th street S. E. The entertaining hostesses are Mrs. Erickson and Mrs. J. C. Alexander. This is the first meeting of the season and anyone interested is invited to attend.

BRAINERD 25 YEARS AGO

From the Daily Dispatch

October 25, 1902

Supt. J. A. Wilson returned from Deerwood last night where he has been visiting schools.

Col. C. D. Johnson returned this morning from Pequot where he gave one of the Jacksonian addresses last night at a rally held there.

E. H. Simmons, the popular knight of the grip, came in last night and will spend Sunday at home.

The Dutch lunch last night by the ladies aid of the Methodist church was in fact a splendid supper and was well attended. Talk about "Vanity of Vanity," but the vanity brought on the table in such numerous heaps was certainly appreciated. The man who was so viciously nudged by his partner when she thought a minister was looking on soon recovered and asked for more of the refreshments. Mrs. Stillings again proved herself a good hostess.

The members of the A. O. H. gave a delightfully pleasant dance last night in the Gardner hall and it was largely attended, partly due to the fact perhaps that it was a benefit for the wife of a former member of the order, but there is always an air of hospitality about the Hibernian parties that make them extremely popular.

AUTUMN SUPPER

Served Tomorrow Evening by Ladies of People's Congregational Church

Tomorrow evening, Oct. 26, the ladies aid of the People's Congregational church of Northeast Brainerd will serve its autumn supper in the church parlors. The following menu will be served from 5 o'clock until all are served: scalloped potatoes, meat loaf, cabbage salad, pickles, jelly, home made rye bread, buns, cake and coffee.

In connection with the supper, there will be a fancy work and homemade candy sale. These suppers and sales have always been a treat to the patrons from all parts of town, and the ladies promise this to be as good as any previously held.

FUNERAL RITES FOR WELL KNOWN MILL CITY SCHOLAR

Minneapolis, Oct. 24.—(U.P.)—Funeral services will be conducted Tuesday for Cephas Daniel Allin, well known scholar and head of the political department at the University of Minnesota, who died late Saturday at his home here. Professor Allin had been associated with the university since 1907. He was 53 years old.

DISCUSSION OF PROBLEMS

Will Take Place at Meeting of Chamber of Commerce Tomorrow Evening

Discussion of problems how to make Brainerd a better place in which to live will come up at tomorrow evening's meeting of the Chamber of Commerce at their rooms at 8 o'clock. R. R. Gould, president stated today.

"We will continue this year again to employ our motto that of maintaining a loyal and friendly spirit in our community with an increased active membership in the Brainerd Chamber of Commerce," Mr. Gould said.

All members are requested to be on hand.

Apply Cream in Nostrils To Open Up Air Passages.

Ah! What relief! Your clogged nostrils open right up, the air passages of your head are clear and you can breathe freely. No more hawking, sniffling, mucous discharge, headache, dryness—no struggling for breath at night, your cold or catarrh is gone.

Don't stay stuffed-up! Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist now. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream in your nostrils, let it penetrate through every air passage of the head; soothe and heal the swollen, inflamed mucous membrane, giving you instant relief. Ely's Cream Balm is just what every cold and catarrh sufferer has been seeking. It's just splendid.

LEARN TO BE GENTLEMEN!

THE revolutionary changes in the standards of women which have taken place during the past ten years, like all revolutions, have brought certain evils in their train. Women's new freedom has given them release from the discomfort and damage of tight clothing; it has encouraged them to develop their bodies and their talents; but in reaching out for equality with men some women are overlooking certain restrictions on which gentlemen prided themselves.

Modesty used to be a virtue for both gentlemen and ladies. Today at every resort women wear bathing suits so abbreviated that if men had worn them ten years ago they would have been ordered off the beach. In 1910 it was illegal for a woman to be seen on the street in pants. Today, women wear them not only for hiking and for sport, but everywhere, and frequently either through carelessness or ignorance they wear them so that they appear not only grotesque but objectionable.

Profanity before women or public discussions of the intimacies and vulgarities of life were not considered gentlemanly a short time ago. Now nothing is too profane or too vulgar for women not only to hear but to discuss. A gentleman used to ask a lady if she objected to smoking. Women smokers rarely ask such a question, but puff their cigarettes carelessly in the face of any neighbor. Women invade the smoking-rooms of men where gentlemen hesitate to intrude in a women's room. They fill the toilet-rooms of hotels and Pullman cars with smoke without regard to the sensibilities of other women.

As one man, himself a believer in freedom and equality, puts it: "Too many women have forgotten how to be ladies and have not yet learned how to be gentlemen!"—The Woman Citizen.

POPULAR INDOOR SPORT

THE popular indoor sport these days seems to be that of jumping on the governor and the "Big Three", says the Wadena Pioneer Journal.

There is an old saying that the tree beneath which the most sticks and stones are found bears the best fruit. By that token Governor Christianson is one of the best governors this state has ever had for he has surely had his share of abuse. He is trying to save the taxpayers' money and that is always unpopular for it means fewer jobs and more work.

Being governor of a great state like Minnesota is always a thankless job and we dare say Governor Christianson will lay down the duties of his office with a sigh of relief. It may be, as some charge, that he is bull-headed but no man can question his sincerity of purpose in effecting economies in the conduct of state affairs. More power to him. We are for any man who does his best and Ted is doing that.

NEED PAVING FOR PROTECTION

TRAFFIC on Minnesota's highways has increased 12 per cent over last year, according to a census of all highways recently taken by the state highway department. Commissioner C. M. Babcock states that 900 miles of paving are needed at once to meet the demands of this increase. Traffic is increasing at such a rate that half of the highways of the state cannot stand up without paving. It is high time for the public to awaken to the need of immediate paving and that means bonding. When highway building fails to keep pace with traffic progress, something must be done or all that has been expended before will be a loss. Paving is a matter of protection for what we already have.—St. Peter Herald.

LOCATING EARTHQUAKES

A SEISMOGRAPH is a most delicate instrument maintained in college observatories, whose needle unfailingly records the earth vibrations when stirred by a quake.

The recent Alaskan earthquake bids fair to fall in the category of the Chinese quake of a year ago which took two months to locate after the seismograph recorded the vibrations. And when China did give up its secret it was found that thousands of Chinese in the deep interior had lost their lives and much property damage had been done.

Alaska, especially large sections of its interior, is as difficult to communicate with as backward China and probably in a few months we may hear the full extent of the damage.

THEIR OPINION OF THE REGENTS

THE editors of the Park Rapids Enterprise take this view of the regents of Minnesota controversy with the "Big Three":

"The regents of the University of Minnesota want to spend the money assigned to its purpose without any interference from the 'Big Three', and are carrying their contention into court hoping for a favorable decision.

"The fuss all started over the refusal of the 'Big Three' to approve an insurance plan, calling for $45,000 of university money. If the employees of the university are in need of insurance let them obtain it without the aid of state funds, as the rest of us mortals have to do."

INDIAN summer in generous measure is being meted out by the weather man, and the out-of-doors is most attractive. Balmy days and a fresh bracing air make this the most delightful season of the year, says an exchange on our desk.

IN spite of all you can do and say, you cannot keep women from taking the air in planes. The Ruth Elder flight was barely negotiated when Mrs. Grayson sought to take off for Copenhagen.

WARM weather during the week end encouraged some seven or eight Brainerd people to go in swimming. Gull lake beach near Round was the scene of the Indian summer exploit.

So far as preparedness for Thanksgiving turkeys is concerned, masked turkey thieves have started operations in Marshall county and have raided several pens.

JACK rabbits are causing considerable damage to forest trees in many North Dakota communities, according to the extension forester of that state.

THE automobile driver who kills and maims in reckless driving is having his day in court.

Renee Adoree Re-enacts Own Life Experience

Renee Adoree, the French actress who will be seen as Melisande the farm girl in "The Big Parade" at the Lyceum theatre beginning today, plays her part as to the manor born, so to speak. For Miss Adoree as the refugee heroine in the picture is reenacting her own thrilling experience when she was driven out of Belgium by the German invaders, escaping from Brussels in a freight train under cover of darkness. She was born under canvas in a circus lot in Lille, and knows every part of rural France thoroughly. No one should miss seeing this truly great picture.

THINGS THAT NEVER HAPPEN

Some Doubt About Him

Human nature changes so little as the years go tearing along that we suppose, when Horace Greeley, Charles A. Dana and Henry Watterson were grinding out their daily observations, middle-aged and elderly people used to sigh for the good old days when there were at least a few great editors.—Ohio State Journal. There's but one other animal more contrary than man.—Newark Advocate.

Only Live Volcano

Lassen peak, California, which was in eruption in 1914, is the only volcano in the United States proper that can be considered active.

Trees Fight for Lives

Trees are fighting for their lives all the time. There are 200,000 known kinds of insects that attack trees. It is estimated that caterpillars, beetles, borers, and other insects cause a loss of $100,000,000 every year. Birds help us a lot in holding the insects in check. But they cannot wage war unaided.

Scene From "Quo Vadis"
"Quo Vadis" Shows Impressive Scenes

One of the most impressive scenes in the picturization of "Quo Vadis," which is playing at the Park theatre tonight and Wednesday, is that depicting the destruction by wild beasts of the Christians in the Arena at Rome.

It is at this point of the progress of the photo-spectacle supreme that a vivid incident takes place, namely, the rescue of Lygia from the jaws of a bull which is about to plunge her to death, and the appeal of the cruel tyrant Nero, on the part of Marcus Vinicius, to spare the Christian girl. Emil Jannings has the role of Nero, and the supporting cast numbers 20,000.

Birds' "Singing Trees"

Birds have their "singing trees" from which they do most of their warbling. It has been noted. The tree selected is generally within sight of the female's nest, and when another bird encroaches on this tree bitter struggles between the males are precipitated.

JOHNNY DUNDEE, OLD TIMER, FAILS IN COMEBACK FIGHT

SUCCUMBS TO DRUM-BEAT OF TONY CANZONERI

VETERAN OF 326 RING BATTLES
ADmits HE IS NOW
THROUGH

WEAKENED BY REDUCING FROM
145 TO 126 POUNDS, RESULT
INEVITABLE

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Sports Editor)
New York, Oct. 25.—(UP)—To the drum-beat of a younger fighter's fists, Johnny Dundee has passed from the spotlight and the headlines.

Shorn of his last excuse for fighting after a decisive and not unexpected defeat at the hands of young Tony Canzoneri of Brooklyn, the veteran of 326 ring battles admitted today that he was through.

"I thought I could defend my old title at the weight," said John, "but I couldn't make the grade."

Dundee tried one of the most unusual "come-backs" in ring history last night. He reduced from his natural weight of somewhere around 145 pounds to make the feather-weight limit of 126, and took on one of the best youngsters in the game in Canzoneri.

The result was inevitable. Canzoneri won from the opening bell, and the marvel of it was that Johnny's ring-craft carried him through the 15 rounds and that the final bell found him still on his feet.

It was a poor fight, even as fights go in this refined age, and only the game exhibition of the old Italian kept the crowd in Madison Square Garden from booing both boxers out of the ring.

They will be claiming the feather-weight title for Tony Canzoneri now but it won't mean a thing. Dundee, until last night, never had defended the title he won from gallant Gene Crigoli four years ago.

No longer a natural featherweight and having long since relinquished any claim to the championship, Johnny boiled down to 126 pounds for one last stab at the headlines and the reward which the fight game reserves for headliners.

Tony Canzoneri is a good feather-weight but he never can be entitled to consideration as a champion on the strength of his victory over Dundee.

The National Boxing Association and the New York State Athletic Commission both have recognized Benny Bass of Philadelphia as champion of the 126 pound class. Until Canzoneri meets and defeats the Philadelphian—and that day probably is distant as ring dates go—Tony will be remembered only as the boxer who put the finishing touch to a long and estimable career.

Dundee's last excuse for fighting disappeared some time ago, on the occasion of his defeat at the hands of second rate boxers. But necessity drove him once more into the fight. Since fighting at the feather-weight limit was the one thing Johnny had not done for four years, he attempted to come back at 126 pounds, claiming for himself the title he relinquished after his victory over Crigoli.

The claim was ridiculous; the effort a brave one. Dundee weathered a storm of punches loosed by his eager young opponent and stayed upright to hear the verdict at the finish. As a fighter, his ring career ended gloriously. As for the claim that he was fighting as a champion of the world last night, there is something decidedly pathetic in the fact that Johnny had to make such a claim.

How to catch a ball, gather in punts, pass, kick, run down the field and receive a pass, are essential to the advancement of the first stages of the ambitious football player, were stressed Saturday morning by Coach Warren Kasch of the high school faculty to 60 boys of the 6th, 7th and 8th grades of the Brainerd schools.

The boys gathered at the high school where Coach Kasch instructed them in the first fundamentals of football. They were told to practice what they had been taught in the sandlots and report to the next meeting tentatively arranged for one week from Saturday.

The graders were enthusiastic in their efforts to learn football. These boys will benefit by their early training when they reach high school and are given tryouts for the high school eleven. Coach Kasch is an advocate of training the boy early to prepare him for football.

At the next meeting the boys will be taught fundamentals of blocking and tackling.

ANOTHER CHAPTER IN THE ROMANTIC CAREER OF W. L. HILL

Livingston, Mont., Oct. 25.—(UP)—Another installment in the romantic career of Walter L. Hill, millionaire son of the late James J. Hill, empire builder, was written today with his reported reconciliation to Mrs. Mildred Richardson Hill, former Follies girl. Mrs. Hill, who married Hill here last May within an hour after he had been divorced from Mrs. Pauline Hill, filed a separate amintenance suit in Butte last week.

A series of conferences, it was reported, resulted in the reconciliation and Hill spent last night with his wife in her suite in the Livingston hotel.

Today the Hills refused to answer telephone calls to their suite but the manager of the hotel confirmed the reconciliation.

NOBILE TO START ON ANOTHER POLAR EXPEDITION

Rome, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Gen. Umberto Nobile will start on another North Pole expedition in April, he told the United Press today. Honored today by membership in the papal scientific society "Tiberina" for his part last year in the Amundsen-Ellsworth-Nobile North Pole flight, the Italian said he would use a dirigible as in the last flight.

"We will follow a different route, this time going across the Alps, thence to Germany, Russia and Spitzbergen, where we will establish our base," he said.

"We hope to begin explorations in mid-April, making a number of flights over 2,500,000 square miles to totally unexplored territory."

DR. H. O. LARABEE, 90, DIES AT WINONA

Winona, Minn., Oct. 25.—(UP)—Dr. H. O. Larabee, 90, believed to be the oldest practicing dentist in the United States, died at his home here late yesterday. Dr. Larabee attended to his office work daily until three weeks ago when he was stricken with a cold. His illness became serious, and death followed.

JOHNNY DUNDEE, OLD TIMER, FAILS IN COMEBACK FIGHT

SUCCUMBS TO DRUM-BEAT OF TONY CANZONERI

VETERAN OF 326 RING BATTLES
ADMITS HE IS NOW
THROUGH

WEAKENED BY REDUCING FROM
145 TO 126 POUNDS, RESULT
INEVITABLE

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Sports Editor)
New York, Oct. 25.—(UP)—To the drum-beat of a younger fighter's fists, Johnny Dundee has passed from the spotlight and the headlines.

Shorn of his last excuse for fighting after a decisive and not unexpected defeat at the hands of young Tony Canzoneri of Brooklyn, the veteran of 326 ring battles admitted today that he was through.

"I thought I could defend my old title at the weight," said John, "but I couldn't make the grade."

Dundee tried one of the most unusual "come-backs" in ring history last night. He reduced from his natural weight of somewhere around 145 pounds to make the feather-weight limit of 126, and took on one of the best youngsters in the game in Canzoneri.

The result was inevitable. Canzoneri won from the opening bell, and the marvel of it was that Johnny's ring-craft carried him through the 15 rounds and that the final bell found him still on his feet.

It was a poor fight, even as fights go in this refined age, and only the game exhibition of the old Italian kept the crowd in Madison Square Garden from booing both boxers out of the ring.

They will be claiming the feather-weight title for Tony Canzoneri now but it won't mean a thing. Dundee, until last night, never had defended the title he won from gallant Gene Crippen four years ago.

No longer a natural featherweight and having long since relinquished any claim to the championship, Johnny boiled down to 126 pounds for one last stab at the headlines and the reward which the fight game reserves for headliners.

Tony Canzoneri is a good featherweight but he never can be entitled to consideration as a champion on the strength of his victory over Dundee.

The National Boxing Association and the New York State Athletic Commission both have recognized Benny Bass of Philadelphia as champion of the 126 pound class. Until Canzoneri meets and defeats the Philadelphia—and that day probably is distant as ring dates go—Tony will be remembered only as the boxer who put the finishing touch to a long and estimable career.

Dundee's last excuse for fighting disappeared some time ago, on the occasion of his defeat at the hands of second rate boxers. But necessity drove him once more into the fight. Since fighting at the feather-weight limit was the one thing Johnny had not done for four years, he attempted to come back at 126 pounds, claiming for himself the title he relinquished after his victory over Crippen.

The claim was ridiculous; the effort a brave one. Dundee weathered a storm of punches loosed by his eager young opponent and stayed upright to hear the verdict at the finish. As a fighter, his ring career ended gloriously. As for the claim that he was fighting as a champion of the world last night, there is something decidedly pathetic in the fact that Johnny had to make such a claim.

BRAINERD SENDS THE LARGEST DELEGATION TO HI-Y CONVENTION

BOYS GREATLY ENJOYED GATHERING AT DETROIT LAKES

At the Older Boys' Conference held at Detroit Lakes, Minnesota, on October 21, 22 and 23, seventy-eight boys and leaders were registered, twenty-one of which were Brainerd delegates. This was the largest delegation.

The Brainerd delegation left the Episcopal church at one o'clock Friday afternoon in the cars of Mr. Newton, Mr. Peterson and Rev. Long. Harold Gridley, Hi-Y adviser, accompanied the boys.

They arrived at Detroit Lakes, a distance of about a hundred miles, at 5:30 o'clock. After registering at the Graystone Hotel and receiving their pins and program books, they were assigned to their rooms in the homes of Detroit Lakes families. All the Boy Scouts of the delegation stayed at Mr. Newton's cottage on Sally Lake.

The conference was officially opened in the Methodist church at 7:30, Friday evening by Mr. Thomas State Boy's Work Secretary, of the Minneapolis Y. M. C. A. One of the most impressive parts of the boys' conference was the wonderful singing which was led by Mr. Larson of Crookston.

After the singing, an address was delivered by Rev. H. N. Tragitt, Jr., the Detroit Lakes leader.

The delegates were assigned to the various quest groups (fifteen to a group) in which the boys could discuss anything of interest to them.

Following the quest groups, the Double Quartet of the Detroit Lakes high school, directed by Miss Wood, showed their prowess in the vocal art.

Rev. E. Parish of Fargo, N. D., the principal speaker of the conference, delivered the main address of the evening. The meeting adjourned at 9:30.

Saturday morning the leaders met at 8:30 to discuss the program to be used. At 9:00 Rev. Tragitt held devotions and made a short address. Then followed the song fest and business meeting. Rev. Parish held solution hour at the close of which the quest groups met.

At 12:00, two pictures were taken of the conference. As the delegates came out of the church, unknown to them, Mr. Newton took some moving pictures. The group pictures taken will be here next week and may be seen at that time on the bulletin board.

As there were no meetings Saturday afternoon, most of the conference attended the Detroit Lakes-Staples football game. Some of the boys went to Fargo with Mr. Newton, who had gained the use of the pool in the Masonic Temple, where they spent the afternoon swimming.

The banquet, which was the important meeting of the conference, was prepared by the ladies of the Methodist church and served by the girls. The toastmaster, Mr. Bland of Hibbing, presided in the place of Lester Howard, associate state secretary of the Y. M. C. A., who was unable to be present. After some yells and songs, Mayor Alfred Knudson, mayor of Detroit Lakes, gave the address of welcome.

Francis Carman, president of the Detroit Lakes Hi-Y Club, made an address of greetings to which Arthur Platt of Fargo made the response.

Mr. Gold, an American who was lately in China, talked on the subject of "World Brotherhood" and also on the present conditions in China.

Rev. E. Parish's talk was based upon the quotation from Joyce Kilmer, "The only reason a road is good, as every wanderer knows, is the homes, the homes, the homes to which it goes."

Sunday morning after a brief meeting in the Methodist church, the boys met their hostesses with whom they went to church.

A finding committee was asked to meet to express their gratitude to the conference leaders, but as the Brainerd boys had to leave early, they sent the committee a letter instead.

Miss Sunberg (telling a story of Archimedes' principle): And Archimedes ran from the bath shouting "Eureka, Eureka!" Eureka means "I have found it" in English. Now, Kathryn, what had he found?

Kathryn S.: The soap!

Visitor: What class are you in at school, my little man?

Her Little Man: Well, lady, I got just two more kids to lick and I'll be in a class all by myself.

Who, What and Where

English 4 students are enjoying the study of "Chaucer." The spelling and pronunciation of Old English is very queer and the students are greatly amused when the teachers read it.

The Chemistry pupils were distilling the other day! Don't be alarmed; they were just distilling common, ordinary water.

Mr. Gridley has given some "Rules for Study" to his pupils. What a perfect school we would have if everyone observed them!

Last week the Home Training classes learned how to make beds. If anyone wishes to learn, ask any of the members of these classes and they'll be more than willing to show you.

Who says our school isn't attractive to outsiders! We even had two snakes visit us last week.

Near the close of the second period Wednesday, we were startled by the clanging of the fire gong. No one had expected a fire drill at this time, so a few were somewhat excited.

Friday, classes started at 8:30 and the morning periods were shortened so that we would have time to listen to a speaker, just before noon.

From outside appearances, it looks as though our school has turned into a home for cripples. For a week or more, John Chadbourne and Donald Geist have been hobbling around the school on crutches.

On Thursday afternoon the Seniors held a short business meeting to decide upon the folders for the class pictures. A folder was selected that had the approval of the majority of the Seniors. It was decided also to have the ring emblem embossed on the pictures. A Halloween party is going to take place on the twentieth of October. More definite arrangements will be made later.

CLUB MEMBERS ENJOY MEETING

PRETENTIOUS PROGRAM IS PRESENTED IN SENIOR ROOM

The Commercial Club, which held its first meeting last Wednesday night, started the season out with a bang. A short business meeting, presided over by Joseph Greener, the new president, was held in the old Senior room. Miss Erstad then decided to test our brains by having a new type of spelldown. After much effort on both sides, Beatrice Liners' side was declared the winner. After this, over fifty students journeyed to the Assembly room where the following program was presented:

I
A One-Act Play, "The First Shave" Fay Lewis—Tommy Lester.
Clarence Sundquist—John Hobbs.
Mildred Prentice—Mary Hobbs.

II
Song, "Street Urchin's Medley" Dorothy Hass and Thelma Jones, Accompanied by Eva Hanski

III
Reading "But Then"—Marjorie Oberst

IV
A One-Act Play "The Minister's Call" Mildred Prentice—Annie Swan.
Laura McGaffigan—Susie Swan.
Hazel Coenen—Mamie Swan.

Fay Lewis—Reverend Mr. Stearns. The entertainment of the evening was in charge of Helen Marie Stadlbauer, who took care of things up in the Gym. At the close of the evening, light refreshments were served by Lois Untereker and her capable refreshment committee.

THE BULLETIN BOARD

Chaucer Chang is to speak at the Hi-Y club meeting on Wednesday, the twenty-sixth.

The Seniors will have a Halloween party on Saturday, the twenty-ninth in the high school.

The Juniors will have a Halloween party on Friday, the twenty-eighth.

There will be a football game Aitkin vs. Brainerd, at Brainerd on Friday, the twenty-eighth.

EXCHANGE

The arrangement of the advertisements in the "Wayzata," Wayzata, Minn., is very good.

The "Echo" management of Luverne high school has offered the award of a letter to each Staff member who faithfully does the work assigned to him. This is a splendid method of promoting efficiency.

We notice in the Arrowhead Pine that International Falls defeated Bemidji, 7-0. Good work.

Two exchanges have already been received from "The Litchfield High News." The front pages of both issues were neatly arranged.

CARL ZAPFFE, JR. TALKS TO STUDENTS

STUDENT GIVES INTERESTING, DETAILED ACCOUNT OF CANOE TRIP

Last Friday the student body had the honor of listening to an address given by one of its members, namely Carl Zapffe.

Carl spoke over the radio last Wednesday evening and since everybody did not get a chance to hear him he was kind enough to give his talk over again.

Carl and a few other Boy Scouts accompanied by their Scoutmaster Perry Newton, and by Gerhardt Flaata and Arthur Tornstrom, went on a canoe trip up north last summer and Carl described the wonderful time they had.

His speech was given so realistically that every student could see the great adventures he had, and we are sure everyone envied him on his trip.

He made his speech interesting and in an imitable style—one which appealed to each one of the students.

The program was in conjunction with a pep fest and following the talk Wiam yanked out a few yells and told the mob to clutter around at Aitkin.

HI-Y HAS INTERESTING INSTRUCTIVE SESSION

The Hi-Y held their third regular "bean feed" plus business meeting last Wednesday in the library of the Y. M. C. A. There were two guests present, Mr. Howard, assistant state secretary of the Y., and Milton Anders, a graduate from the engineering college of the U. of M. After the meeting both gentlemen addressed the members.

Mr. Howard explained how any boy in order to be a success must have A-R-E. A which stands for ability, reliability, energy and action. His address had an unflattering depth of meaning and was very beneficial to every boy.

Milton Anders' address was of a different type, rather humorous but very helpful to the boys. He spoke on college life, taking up the topics of enrollment, miseries of the freshman year and social enjoyments. Mr. Anders brought with him a number of his college relics which made his speech all the more interesting.

Last week Miss Oldenburg sent Miss Tornstrom a program of the football game between West High and Marinette which took place Oct. 15. This is the first game between these two schools since 1920. The game came out 6 to 19 in favor of West High.

JOE HEALD TO LEAD THE SOPHS

ROSS OLMSTEAD IS ELECTED VICE PRES. DENT

At the first sophomore meeting, held Thursday, Joe Heald was chosen to lead the class activities for the coming year. Albert Olson is to keep a record of the meetings held and Claude Holden was entrusted with handling the funds. Ross Olmstead is vice president and Mr. Johnson and Miss O'Brien, the faculty advisers.

The nominating committee which was appointed a week before the election announced their nominations Tuesday, giving the voters three days to consider the merits of the candidates.

Mr. Johnson acted as chairman until after the election, when the president took over the meeting. It was decided that the dues were to be fifteen cents a month. All other business was postponed until the next meeting.

SOPHOMORES GET MOST SPACE ON FIRST SIX WEEKS' HONOR ROLL

Normal Training Notes

The girls of the Normal Training Department had a regular Thanks-giving supper at the home of Verna Persson Thursday evening, October 13. Mrs. Persson has won prizes on her canning at the county fair, and the girls consider it quite a privilege to be invited to share such a feast as was served.

While at the Persson farm Esther Gallagher and Alta Storm, "Me and my shadow" kindly offered yea, even insisted that they would take care of the milking for that evening. Wild yells coming from the direction of the barn were soon heard by those in the house. Soon the girls came rushing in. All asked in one breath, "Did you get kicked?" "No, we saw a mouse!" Enuff said.

The Normal girls have been observing at rural schools the week of October 17 to 21. Among the schools visited were: Fort Ripley, Lenox, and Oak Lawn.

After having studied lessons from Miss Rickard for the past three weeks several of the girls took charge of a morning class, music, at the Whittier and the Lincoln first for the day. Pitch pipes that would not work and colds in the head failed to be good enough excuses.

Witchery of Fall

By CARL ZAPFFE
Witch, the magic potions in your caldron steam into my face,

The odors from your kettle send slyimps upon a chase:

A puckish band through windows climbs into the hushed schoolroom. A legion formed now presses Pompey hard, drives Caesar to his doom. So goes the noble Pericles, so dies our friend, geometry.

Wax leaves that flutter from the tree befog the knowledge once in me.

Witch, deliciously your caldron steams into my very face,
Your impish band my mind beclouds,
my duteous thoughts efface.

KASCH'S GRIDDERS GET AITKIN, 7-0

STEVENS IS KEPT IN THE BACK-GROUND DURING GAME

Brainerd overcame stiff opposition from Aitkin to put away her third victory of the season. The game, played on Aitkin's field last Saturday, proved to be a very interesting battle between two evenly matched teams. Even when Fuller passed the line in the second quarter for the first and only touchdown, and Frankie caught a pass for the extra point, the game was undecided. Aitkin's hard hitting bunch fought till the last play in a desperate attempt to drive through for a tying touchdown and point.

The stopping of Stevens, Aitkin's dangerous fullback, was the difficult task which our team undertook and accomplished. Wise showed excellent generalship in the handling of the team. He also proved his ability to pass and receive, bringing in the extra point after the touchdown. Hautala showed fine form in his punting. Welliver played very well in LaCourse's position, replacing him for the entire game. Creger showed his usual effectiveness at tackle.

Coach Kasch commended the team upon their sterling work, especially for the outstanding stopping of Stevens.

Next Friday's game should be a hard-fought struggle with Aitkin seeking to even the defeat they suffered.

ALUMNI

Dorothy Deering '27 is planning on entering the Ancker hospital to take a nurse's training course.

Marian Liners '27 who is employed at the Northwestern Bell Telephone Co. visited at the high school last Thursday.

Donald McKay '27 who graduated last year, from The Coast Guard Academy and is now an Ensign reports that he is now hard at work boarding "suspects."

Selma Molstad, 1916, is teaching in Minneapolis.

John Hohman of '27 is now employed at the Sherlund Auto Company.

SENIORS POINT TO CLASS AVERAGES AND STAND-ARD

Well, here it is at last, the schools little ray of sunlight that will illuminate materially the existence of a number of individuals for the coming six weeks.

The Sophomores head the list with 13 A students and 15 B students.

Third are the Juniors who have two A students and 13 B students. And last come the Freshmen with 3 A students and 10 B students.

The class averages in order of their size are:

Seniors, 83—7 percent.
Sophomores, 82—8 per cent.
Juniors, 82—6 per cent.
Freshmen, 81—6 per cent.

We are rather proud of this Honor Roll as it is exceptionally good for the first six weeks.

Bob Anderson is one of those fellows who have spring fever all year long.

Miss Bowers: Do you have any trouble with shall and will?
Kenneth T.: No, my mother says you shall and I say I will.

Teacher (giving out seeds to the pupils to plant): Bernard, what kind of seeds do you want?
Bernard S.: I would like some pickle seeds.

PEGGY SAYS—

Just look at those honor rolls. Just look at them though. My sakes alive, the Sophomores have us all beat to smash. By us I mean the Seniors. Just the same I think I could voice an excuse for them, by saying, "Look at the density of the subjects we are taking, also the amount of business together with the excitement of being a senior."

By the way when we get our rings I am thinking that the rest of the school will be so dazzled by the array that they will all forget their lessons to stare. Then we, the good old seniors, shall have room to get on the honor roll. The fact of our getting rings will give other people proof of those who are seniors and those who are not. As it has been said before, that if a stranger saw a group of students, he would not know which were upper classmen and which were not because the lower classes act so conceited that any one would naturally think they were seniors; where the real seniors are very nice and sociable—a fact quite contrary to custom.

Say—are we going to beat Aitkin. Well I guess—Yours till we don't.

SCOUTS BROADCAST A PROGRAM OVER WCCO

On the nineteenth of October, being Wednesday, the Boy Scouts gave a program over WCCO.

There were several boys from Aitkin, Ironton, Staples, and two from Brainerd.

The program was supposed to consist of a little noise from a bugle by Dale Sanders, a speech by Carl Zapffe, a mouth organ solo by a boy from Ironton, and ending up with a talk from Mr. Newton.

As Dale's car had a little streak of bad luck, he could not be there. But Carl gave his talk on the canoe trip and all the things that happened including that Gordon Cross fell in from a rock and that Malcolm Ellison poured bacon grease in another boy's boot. Then the boy who was to play the mouth organ was missing also. So Mr. Newton talked on the building of troops in the country by the Eagle Scouts of the district. Thus ended the program and later the missing boys filed in.

STUDENT WILL PRESENT TEACHER WITH LILIES

When coming into the school in the morning, did you by chance ever notice that the lower hall didn't look the same? Did you ever look twice to see what was so different about it? You would look one way, then the other, but what was the difference? Well, just follow instructions and you will find out how to observe the new addition. Turn around three times; look ahead of you. If you don't see it, look behind you. Don't you see it? Well, of all things. Look to your right. No, don't you see? Disgusting business! You go back to your assembly until it is time to go home for lunch. Then when you have descended the stairs look again. There! It is right in front of you. See! There are new hooks on the wall next to Mr. Johnson's room.

They are so bright and shiny, one would almost think the stars had fallen from the sky and had forgotten to ascend again.

Mrs. Wangenstein formerly Miss Dolven, visited in town over the week end.

HUMOR

In spite of the owl's wisdom, he has not yet learned when and where to use who and whom.

Kenneth T. (who hasn't a sheet of paper): I'm sheetless.

Miss Bowers: Kenneth, what is gender?
Kenneth: It's a man that tends the fire in the basement.

Miss Marshall: Use the word sanctuary in a sentence, John.
John: Sanctuary much for the buggy ride.

Miss Graham: In what year was the Parthenon completed?
Adolph E.: In the year of the big frieze.

Miss Schow (in her English II class): Who is a pretty good speller?
Roger Callahan: I am, but I don't suppose you spell the words the same way that I do.

BRAINERD SENDS THE LARGEST DELEGATION TO HI-Y CONVENTION

BOYS GREATLY ENJOYED GATHERING AT DETROIT LAKES

At the Older Boys' Conference held at Detroit Lakes, Minnesota, on October 21, 22 and 23, seventy-eight boys and leaders were registered, twenty-one of which were Brainerd delegates. This was the largest delegation.

The Brainerd delegation left the Episcopal church at one o'clock Friday afternoon in the cars of Mr. Newton, Mr. Peterson and Rev. Long. Harold Gridley, Hi-Y adviser, accompanied the boys.

They arrived at Detroit Lakes, a distance of about a hundred miles, at 5:30 o'clock. After registering at the Graystone Hotel and receiving their pins and program books, they were assigned to their rooms in the homes of Detroit Lakes families. All the Boy Scouts of the delegation stayed at Mr. Newton's cottage on Sally Lake.

The conference was officially opened in the Methodist church at 7:30, Friday evening by Mr. Thomas State Boy's Work Secretary, of the Minneapolis Y. M. C. A. One of the most impressive parts of the boys' conference was the wonderful singing which was led by Mr. Larson of Crookston.

After the singing, an address was delivered by Rev. H. N. Tragitt, Jr., the Detroit Lakes leader.

The delegates were assigned to the various quest groups (fifteen to a group) in which the boys could discuss anything of interest to them.

Following the quest groups, the Double Quartet of the Detroit Lakes high school, directed by Miss Wood, showed their prowess in the vocal art.

Rev. E. Parish of Fargo, N. D., the principal speaker of the conference, delivered the main address of the evening. The meeting adjourned at 9:30.

Saturday morning the leaders met at 8:30 to discuss the program to be used. At 9:00 Rev. Tragitt held devotions and made a short address. Then followed the song fest and business meeting. Rev. Parish held solution hour at the close of which the quest groups met.

At 12:00, two pictures were taken of the conference. As the delegates came out of the church, unknown to them, Mr. Newton took some moving pictures. The group pictures taken will be here next week and may be seen at that time on the bulletin board.

As there were no meetings Saturday afternoon, most of the conference attended the Detroit Lakes-Staples football game. Some of the boys went to Fargo with Mr. Newton, who had gained the use of the pool in the Masonic Temple, where they spent the afternoon swimming.

The banquet, which was the important meeting of the conference, was prepared by the ladies of the Methodist church and served by the girls. The toastmaster, Mr. Bland of Hibbing, presided in the place of Lester Howard, associate state secretary of the Y. M. C. A., who was unable to be present. After some yells and songs, Mayor Alfred Knudson, mayor of Detroit Lakes, gave the address of welcome.

Francis Carman, president of the Detroit Lakes Hi-Y Club, made an address of greetings to which Arthur Platt of Fargo made the response.

Mr. Gold, an American who was lately in China, talked on the subject of "World Brotherhood" and also on the present conditions in China.

Rev. E. Parish's talk was based upon the quotation from Joyce Kilmer, "The only reason a road is good, as every wanderer knows, is the homes, the homes, the homes to which it goes."

Sunday morning after a brief meeting in the Methodist church, the boys met their hostesses with whom they went to church.

A finding committee was asked to meet to express their gratitude to the conference backers, but as the Brainerd boys had to leave early, they sent the committee a letter instead.

Miss Sunberg (telling a story of Archimedes' principle): And Archimedes ran from the bath shouting "Eureka, Eureka!" Eureka means "I have found it" in English. Now, Kathryn, what had he found?

Visitor: What class are you in at school, my little man?

Her Little Man: Well, lady, I got just two more kids to lick and I'll be in a class all by myself.

Who, What and Where

English 4 students are enjoying the study of "Chaucer." The spelling and pronunciation of Old English is very queer and the students are greatly amused when the teachers read it.

The Chemistry pupils were distilling the other day! Don't be alarmed; they were just distilling common, ordinary water.

Mr. Gridley has given some "Rules for Study" to his pupils. What a perfect school we would have if everyone observed them!

Last week the Home Training classes learned how to make beds. If anyone wishes to learn, ask any of the members of these classes and they'll be more than willing to show you.

Who says our school isn't attractive to outsiders? We even had two snakes visit us last week.

Near the close of the second period Wednesday, we were startled by the clanging of the fire gong. No one had expected a fire drill at this time, so a few were somewhat excited.

Friday, classes started at 8:30 and the morning periods were shortened, so that we would have time to listen to a speaker, just before noon.

From outside appearances, it looks as though our school has turned into a home for cripples. For a week or more, John Chadbourne and Donald Geist have been hobbling around the school on crutches.

On Thursday afternoon the Seniors held a short business meeting to decide upon the folders for the class pictures. A folder was selected that had the approval of the majority of the Seniors. It was decided also to have the ring emblem embossed on the pictures. A Halloween party is going to take place on the twentieth of October. More definite arrangements will be made later.

CLUB MEMBERS ENJOY MEETING

PRETENTIOUS PROGRAM IS PRESENTED IN SENIOR ROOM

The Commercial Club, which held its first meeting last Wednesday night, started the season out with a bang. A short business meeting, presided over by Joseph Greener, the new president, was held in the old Senior room. Miss Erstad then decided to test our brains by having a new type of spell-down. After much effort on both sides, Beatrice Liners' side was declared the winner. After this, over fifty students journeyed to the Assembly room where the following program was presented:

I
A One-Act Play, "The First Shave"
Fay Lewis—Tommy Lester,
Clarence Sundquist—John Hobbs,
Mildred Prentice—Mary Hobbs.

II
Song, "Street Urchin's Medley"
Dorothy Hass and Thelma Jones,
Accompanied by Eva Hanski

III
Reading "But Then"—Marjorie Oberst

IV
A One-Act Play "The Minister's Call"
Mildred Prentice—Annie Swan,
Laura McGaffigan—Susie Swan,
Hazel Coenen—Mamie Swan.

Fay Lewis—Reverend Mr. Stearns,
The entertainment of the evening was in charge of Helen Marie Stadlbauer, who took care of things up in the Gym. At the close of the evening, light refreshments were served by Lois Untereker and her capable refreshment committee.

THE BULLETIN BOARD

Chaucer Chang is to speak at the Hi-Y club meeting on Wednesday, the twenty-sixth.

The Seniors will have a Hallo-ween party on Saturday, the twenty-ninth in the high school.

The Juniors will have a Hallo-ween party on Friday, the twenty-eighth.

There will be a football game Aitkin vs. Brainerd, at Brainerd on Friday, the twenty-eighth.

EXCHANGE

The arrangement of the advertisements in the "Wayzatan," Wayzata, Minn., is very good.

The "Echo" management of Luverne high school has offered the award of a letter to each Staff member who faithfully does the work assigned to him. This is a splendid method of promoting efficiency.

We notice in the Arrowhead Pineapple that International Falls defeated Bemidji, 7-0. Good work.

Two exchanges have already been received from "The Litchfield High News." The front pages of both issues were neatly arranged.

CARL ZAPFFE, JR. TALKS TO STUDENTS

STUDENT GIVES INTERESTING, DETAILED ACCOUNT OF CANOE TRIP

Last Friday the student body had the honor of listening to an address given by one of its members, namely Carl Zapffe.

Carl spoke over the radio last Wednesday evening and since everybody did not get a chance to hear him he was kind enough to give his talk over again.

Carl and a few other Boy Scouts accompanied by their Scoutmaster Perry Newton, and by Gerhardt Flaata and Arthur Tornstrom, went on a canoe trip up north last summer and Carl described the wonderful time they had.

His speech was given so realistically that every student could see the great adventures he had, and we are sure everyone envied him on his trip.

He made his speech interesting and in an imitable style—one which appealed to each one of the students.

The program was in conjunction with a pep fest and following the talk Wiam yanked out a few yells and told the mob to clutter around at Aitkin.

HI-Y HAS INTERESTING INSTRUCTIVE SESSION

The Hi-Y held their third regular "bean feed" plus business meeting last Wednesday in the library of the Y. M. C. A. There were two guests present, Mr. Howard, assistant state secretary of the Y., and Milton Anders, a graduate from the engineering college of the U. of M. After the meeting both gentlemen addressed the members.

Mr. Howard explained how any boy in order to be a success must have A-R-E. A which stands for ability, reliability, energy and action. His address had an un-fathomable depth of meaning and was very beneficial to every boy.

Milton Anders' address was of a different type, rather humorous but very helpful to the boys. He spoke on college life, taking up the topics of enrollment, miseries of the freshman year and social enjoyments. Mr. Anders brought with him a number of his college relics which made his speech all the more interesting.

Last week Miss Oldenburg sent Miss Tornstrom a program of the football game between West High and Marinette which took place Oct. 15. This is the first game between these two schools since 1920. The game came out 6 to 19 in favor of West High.

JOE HEALD TO LEAD THE SOPHS

ROSS OLMSTEAD IS ELECTED VICE PRESIDENT

At the first sophomore meeting, held Thursday, Joe Heald was chosen to lead the class activities for the coming year. Albert Olson is to keep a record of the meetings held and Claude Holden was entrusted with handling the funds. Ross Olmstead is vice president and Mr. Johnson and Miss O'Brien, the faculty advisers.

The nominating committee which was appointed a week before the election announced their nominations Tuesday, giving the voters three days to consider the merits of the candidates.

Mr. Johnson acted as chairman until after the election, when the president took over the meeting. It was decided that the dues were to be fifteen cents a month. All other business was postponed until the next meeting.

SOPHOMORES GET MOST SPACE ON FIRST SIX WEEKS' HONOR ROLL

Normal Training Notes

The girls of the Normal Training Department had a regular Thanksgiving supper at the home of Verni Persson Thursday evening, October 13. Mrs. Persson has won prizes on her canning at the county fair, and the girls consider it quite a privilege to be invited to share such a feast as was served.

While at the Persson farm Esther Gallagher and Alta Storm, "Me and my shadow" kindly offered yea, even insisted that they would take care of the milking for that evening. Wild yells coming from the direction of the barn were soon heard by those in the house. Soon the girls came rushing in. All asked in one breath, "Did you get kicked?" "No, we saw a mouse!" Enuff said.

The Normal girls have been observing at rural schools the week of October 17 to 21. Among the schools visited were: Fort Ripley, Lenox, and Oak Lawn.

After having studied lessons from Miss Rickard for the past three weeks several of the girls took charge of a morning class, music, at the Whittier and the Lincoln first for the day. Pitch pipes that would not work and colds in the head failed to be good enough excuses.

Witchery of Fall

By CARL ZAPFFE

Witch, the magic potions in your caldron steam into my face,
The odors from your kettle send sly lumps upon a chase:

A puckish band through windows climbs into the hushed schoolroom. A legion formed now presses Pompey hard, drives Caesar to his doom. So goes the noble Pericles, so dies our friend, geometry.

Wax leaves that flutter from the tree befog the knowledge once in me.

Witch, deliciously your caldron steams into my very face,
Your impish band my mind beclouds, my duteous thoughts efface.

KASCH'S GRIDDERS GET AITKIN, 7-0

STEVENS IS KEPT IN THE BACK-GROUND DURING GAME

Brainerd overcame stiff opposition from Aitkin to put away her third victory of the season. The game, played on Aitkin's field last Saturday, proved to be a very interesting battle between two evenly matched teams. Even when Fuller passed the line in the second quarter for the first and only touchdown, and Frankie caught a pass for the extra point, the game was undecided. Aitkin's hard hitting bunch fought till the last play in a desperate attempt to drive through for a tying touchdown and point.

The stopping of Stevens, Aitkin's dangerous fullback, was the difficult task which our team undertook and accomplished. Wise showed excellent generalship in the handling of the team. He also proved his ability to pass and receive, bringing in the extra point after the touchdown. Hautala showed fine form in his punting. Welliver played very well in LaCourse's position, replacing him for the entire game. Creger showed his usual effectiveness at tackle.

Coach Kasch commended the team upon their sterling work, especially for the outstanding stopping of Stevens.

Next Friday's game should be a hard-fought struggle with Aitkin seeking to even the defeat they suffered.

ALUMNI

Dorothy Deering '27 is planning on entering the Ancker hospital to take a nurse's training course.

Marian Liners '27 who is employed at the Northwestern Bell Telephone Co. visited at the high school last Thursday.

Donald McKay '27 who graduated last year from The Coast Guard Academy and is now an Ensign reports that he is now hard at work boarding "suspects."

Selma Molstad, 1916, is teaching in Minneapolis.

John Hohman of '27 is now employed at the Sherlund Auto Company.

SENIORS POINT TO CLASS AVERAGES AND STAND-ARD

Well, here it is at last, the schools little ray of sunlight that will illuminate materially the existence of a number of individuals for the coming six weeks.

The Sophomores head the list with 13 A students and 15 B students. Third are the Juniors who have two A students and 13 B students.

And last come the Freshmen with 3 A students and 10 B students. The class averages in order of their size are:

Seniors, 83—7 per cent.
Sophomores, 82—8 per cent.
Juniors, 82—6 per cent.
Freshmen, 81—6 per cent.

We are rather proud of this Honor Roll as it is exceptionally good for the first six weeks.

Brainerd Electric Co.

17,000 MILE TRIP ENDS IN BRAINERD

Chester S. Benson Returns From Interesting Journey to European Countries

AT LEGION CONVENTION

Impressed With People And Living Conditions in Foreign Districts

Chester S. Benson, of Brainerd, has returned from one of the greatest larks a young man would care to wish for in the average boresome life—that of travelling approximately 17,000 miles in enjoyable company of fellow Americans, seeing vast new fields of industrial and social life, benefitting by foreign acquaintanceship and viewing the great transformation of war torn Europe to its present quiescent stage of domesticity and social prestige.

Mr. Benson returned last night and was back to work again this morning at the Electric Garage. His trip to Paris, France as a member of the American Legion to attend the convention, was complete with thrills. He stated this morning that the trip was wonderful, made more so by favorable weather and enjoyed by all from the small gatherings where doughnuts were served to doughboys to great fetes showered upon the Americans by the French government. He was impressed with the congenial hospitality of the foreign nations of Holland, France, Germany and England to the American, the conditions of these countries, the life of the socially great to the peasant, and the innumerable sights and historical history found everywhere.

He visited the battlefields of Verdun, Argonne Forest where Americans gallantly fought and died and paid homage to fallen heroes in their last resting places. Where once devastation and ruin was, districts now are seeing the advancement of peace-time. Farmers are tilling the lands where the great howitzers boomed and peaceful little French villages are noticed where once the earth was red and scarred with shell holes. The German, once the enemy in a world wide strife, now chats in broken English with the Americans as they sip beer in world famous gardens.

Chester Benson left Brainerd on September 5 and sailed on September 9 from Quebec, Canada on the S. S. Montanarian of the Canadian Pacific Lines. The Legionnaires of which there were 1,000 on the boat, arrived at Antwerp, Belgium on September 19 and immediately departed to Paris via Brussels. The Legionnaires spent one week in Paris where they were guests of honor at banquets given by the French government, visited various interesting places of Paris and made a tour of the battlefields. After visiting different parts of France, the Legionnaires left for Germany. They were escorted through the palatial palace formerly occupied by Kaiser Wilhelm at Potsdam, then travelled to Berlin. From there they travelled to Holland where they visited Rotterdam and viewed with interest the canals for which this country is noted. They sailed from the Hook of Holland for Harwich, England, and from there to London, England where they visited places of interest.

On October 6 they sailed from South Hampton arriving in Quebec on October 14. From there Mr. Benson went to New York City where he visited the large radio factory of the Fred Eisemann for which the Electric Garage is local dealer. From New York Mr. Benson travelled to Montreal and from there to Detroit, Mich., and to Cleveland where he inspected the Willard factory, manufacturers of storage batteries and radio power units. From there he travelled to Toledo where he went through the Electric Auto-Light Co. factory, manufacturers of automobile electrical equipment. He was greeted on his return to Brainerd by his many friends here.

"FATTY" WOOD LOSES 60 POUNDS

Does Not Injure His Cheerful Disposition; Now Visiting Relatives in State

WEIGHS 340 POUNDS

Loss of 60 pounds might cause others to fret but it certainly does not temper the cheerful disposition of Tommy Wood, film comedian and product of Brainerd to the film metropolis of the world.

Tommy or "Fatty" as he was affably known in Brainerd is back to Minnesota after an absence of six years, visiting relatives at Minneapolis in between his appearance before the klieg lights in Hollywood. He does not blame the gay life of the film colony for his lost weight as he still is 340 pounds to the good.

Tommy left this city seven years ago to appear as a heavyweight comedian with Charlie Chaplin in "Sunshine" and has been appearing regularly in the films ever since. He is at present visiting his sister, Mrs. Robert Blakkstad, 3129 Aldrich avenue S., Minneapolis and may come up to Brainerd to renew acquaintances. It is his first vacation since he started performing before the camera.

He is at present mourning the loss of his friend Hughey Mack, the heavyweight comedian, whose death occurred last week. Johnny Cooper, also a pretty gentleman from Hollywood, Mack and Wood were known as "the trio of comedy" among fellow members of the Elks Lodge, No. 966 Santa Monica. Tommy is the drum major of the Elks band.

"There is a little lull in the film industry at present," Wood is quoted as saying in Minneapolis. "and I thought I would come back to see my Minnesota relatives. Can't account for my loss of weight. But I never felt better than I do now that I am down to 340 pounds. It's a great feeling not to be overweight. I have been working in the Christie Studios for the last few years. Picture business is fine, but, like everything else, it gets monotonous. Anyone gets tired of being a film celebrity."

The latest picture Wood appeared in is "His Foreign Wife" with Greta Garbo. The film has not been released yet.

While Tommy has lost 60 pounds of weight he has gained 200 in press clippings, he said.

DEVISE MEANS OF REMOVING POSTS

Change in "Y." Floor Will Make it Possible to Play Basketball and Volleyball

CONFER WITH N. P.

Lester Howard Expresses Himself as Pleased With Progress of Campaign

Plans are under way to remove the posts from the center of the Y. M. C. A. gym floor to make it possible to put on a regular physical program for men and boys. Lester Howard of the state Y. M. C. A. committee has been in consultation with the architectural department of the N. P. at St. Paul where the original plans of the Brainerd building are on file. They stated that they thought it would be possible to figure out plans for the substitution of steel beams and eliminate the posts. They have agreed to figure this out and consult with J. H. Davidson, local civil engineer of the railroad.

Although the building is considered to be in good condition, due to the fact that the two posts in the gym are the main supporting columns for the weight of the building, great care will be necessary in planning the change.

There is widespread interest in Brainerd for this change, as it would be possible then to have a boys basketball court and a men's volleyball court. Businessmen have stated that they would support the move when it is sanctioned, and the railroad would furnish used steel at a small cost.

Mr. Howard, who assisted Brainerd business men with the campaign stated that he never saw such interest here before manifested for the organization. The state committee is rendering all the service possible to give Brainerd a good "Y" organization and program.

FINED $25 AND COSTS EACH

O'Neil Nelson and A. M. Haynes Found Guilty of Disorderly Conduct Yesterday

O'Neil Nelson and A. M. Haynes were found guilty in municipal court yesterday afternoon by Judge J. H. Warner of disorderly conduct and fined $25 and costs each.

The charge resulted from a disturbance in the Ideal Hotel early Sunday morning. Two Pequot youths, Louis Martin Aubele and Ralph Newman are said to have come to the hotel at an early hour seeking a room for the night. Believing Haynes to be the clerk, they stated, they took the room assigned to them, which happened to be Haynes' room. Haynes and Nelson are alleged to have caused a disturbance in the room preventing the two boys from using the room. They left the hotel and reported the matter to the police.

Attorney Hilding Swanson represented Nelson and Haynes while City Attorney D. H. Fullerton prosecuted.

MILL CITY ROTARY SENDS INVITATION

Will Entertain Ray Havens, Chairman of 1928 Rotary International Convention Today

FRIDAY EVENING, 7 O'CLOCK

Many Brainerd Members Expected to Attend; Meeting to be Held at Nicolet Hotel

The Rotary Club of Minneapolis has extended an invitation to the Brainerd Rotary Club through its president, William A. Spencer, to attend their meeting next Friday evening at 7 o'clock in the Nicolet hotel, at which time the club will entertain Past President Ray Havens, now chairman of the 1928 Rotary International Convention Committee. All members of his committee and the members of the St. Paul club and their wives will meet jointly with Minneapolis.

Edgar F. Zelle, president of Minneapolis Rotary, writes in part as follows:

"We feel that this will be such an interesting meeting that we would be glad to have the members of your club come to Minneapolis to attend. I know that any of your members would feel the trip worth while but I should like to stress the benefit to be gained particularly by any of the executive officers of your club who can arrange to come and be with us, and any of your Rotary Anps who can possibly come."

It is expected that a number of Brainerd Rotarians will attend.

17,000 MILE TRIP ENDS IN BRAINERD

Chester S. Benson Returns From Interesting Journey to European Countries

AT LEGION CONVENTION

Impressed With People And Living Conditions in Foreign Districts

Chester S. Benson, of Brainerd, has returned from one of the greatest larks a young man would care to wish for in the average boresome life—that of travelling approximately 17,000 miles in enjoyable company of fellow Americans, seeing vast new fields of industrial and social life, benefiting by foreign acquaintanceship and viewing the great transformation of war torn Europe to its present quiescent stage of domesticity and social prestige.

Mr. Benson returned last night and was back to work again this morning at the Electric Garage. His trip to Paris, France as a member of the American Legion to attend the convention, was complete with thrills. He stated this morning that the trip was wonderful, made more so by favorable weather and enjoyed by all from the small gatherings where doughnuts were served to doughboys to great fetes showered upon the Americans by the French government. He was impressed with the congenial hospitality of the foreign nations of Holland, France, Germany and England to the American, the conditions of these countries, the life of the socially great to the peasant, and the innumerable sights and historical history found everywhere.

He visited the battlefields of Verdun, Argonne Forest where Americans gallantly fought and died and paid homage to fallen heroes in their last resting places. Where once devastation and ruin was, districts now are seeing the advancement of peace-time. Farmers are tilling the lands where the great howitzers boomed and peaceful little French villages are noticed where once the earth was red and scarred with shell holes. The German, once the enemy in a world wide strife, now chats in broken English with the Americans as they sip beer in world famous gardens.

Chester Benson left Brainerd on September 5 and sailed on September 9 from Quebec, Canada on the S. S. Montevideo of the Canadian Pacific Lines. The Legionnaires of which there were 1,000 on the boat, arrived at Antwerp, Belgium on September 19 and immediately departed to Paris via Brussels. The Legionnaires spent one week in Paris where they were guests of honor at banquets given by the French government, visited various interesting places of Paris and made a tour of the battlefields. After visiting different parts of France, the Legionnaires left for Germany. They were escorted through the palatial palace formerly occupied by Kaiser Wilhelm at Potsdam, then travelled to Berlin. From there they travelled to Holland where they visited Rotterdam and viewed with interest the canals for which this country is noted. They sailed from the Hook of Holland for Harwich, England, and from there to London, England where they visited places of interest.

On October 6 they sailed from Southampton arriving in Quebec on October 14. From there Mr. Benson went to New York City where he visited the large radio factory of the Freed Eisemann for which the Electric Garage is local dealer. From New York Mr. Benson travelled to Montreal and from there to Detroit, Mich., and to Cleveland where he inspected the Willard factory, manufacturers of storage batteries and radio power units. From there he travelled to Toledo where he went through the Electric Auto-Light Co. factory, manufacturers of automobile electrical equipment. He was greeted on his return to Brainerd by his many friends here.

"FATTY" WOOD LOSES 60 POUNDS

Does Not Injure His Cheerful Disposition; Now Visiting Relatives in State

WEIGHS 340 POUNDS

Loss of 60 pounds might cause others to fret but it certainly does not temper the cheerful disposition of Tommy Wood, film comedian and product of Brainerd to the film metropolis of the world.

Tommy or "Fatty" as he was affably known in Brainerd is back to Minnesota after an absence of six years, visiting relatives at Minneapolis in between his appearance before the klieg lights in Hollywood. He does not blame the gay life of the film colony for his lost weight as he still is 340 pounds to the good. Tommy left this city seven years ago to appear as a heavyweight comedian with Charlie Chaplin in "Sunnyside" and has been appearing regularly in the films ever since. He is at present visiting his sister, Mrs. Robert Blakkstad, 3129 Aldrich avenue S., Minneapolis and may come up to Brainerd to renew acquaintances. It is his first vacation since he started performing before the camera.

He is at present mourning the loss of his friend Hugh Mack, the heavy-weight comedian, whose death occurred last week. Johnny Cooper, also a pretty gentleman from Hollywood, Mack and Wood were known as "the ten of comedy" among fellow members of the Elks Lodge, No. 966 Santa Monica. Tommy is the drum major of the Elks band. "There is a little lull in the film industry at present," Wood is quoted as saying in Minneapolis, "and I thought I would come back to see my Minnesota relatives. Can't account for my loss of weight. But I never felt better than I do now that I am down to 340 pounds. It's a great feeling not to be overweight. I have been working in the Christie Studios for the last few years. Picture business is fine, but, like everything else, it gets monotonous. Anyone gets tired of being a film celebrity."

The latest picture Wood appeared in is "His Foreign Wife" with Greta Garbo. The film has not been released yet.

While Tommy has lost 60 pounds of weight he has gained 200 in press clippings, he said.

"IRISH HEARTS," with May McAvoy, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS
Sheila Kildare and her father emigrate to America to follow Emmett Murtough, to whom she is betrothed. Neither Kildare nor Murtough hold steady jobs and Sheila works as a waitress. Her only friends are the family of Rory O'Shea, a professional boxer, whose kindness interests her. Murtough joins a band of bootleggers and, influenced by a cabaret girl, reveals a plan to move $150,000 worth of contraband. He enters with the rivals to betray the hiding place.

"Listen, I understand, from what we have learned about you, that you and this little girl are good friends—in fact, you'd both like to get married and get a good start in a business worth while. Well, here's your chance. Do this one job and you've got the money to marry and to settle down in a legitimate business. It's a chance not many fellows get in this game," he added. "How about it?"

"And if you don't want to play that way, we'll turn you up to Clocker within an hour. Murtough did not realize that if they did, it would tip off their own plans. He sat dumbly for several minutes, then threw out his hands and said:

"All right. You win and I'll play square with you; but it's the first crooked deal I ever put over."

They decided that Murtough had better sleep in the apartment there until time to get up and drive to the Long Island rendezvous. Another inner bedroom connected with that occupied by Schermer, and Murtough was assigned to that. There was no door leading to the hall and the window was seven stories above the street. Murtough sat himself down to reflections on the gift of eternal silence.

CHAPTER XI

Planning the "Double-Cross"

Sheila had not seen Rory O'Shea since his victory over Campeau at the Garden. She had avoided Mrs. O'Shea, too, because she felt that she might be embarrassed if she visited Rory's mother, and he were to be home when she called. She felt instinctively that Rory admired her even though she had not heard from him directly during his stay at the training camp. Memory of the long automobile ride brought back many pleasant recollections of this becoming young man, but now that she had given her word definitely to Emmett Murtough she felt she must put such thoughts from her.

Rory had called at the Kildare apartment one night but Sheila was not at home and Old Tom did not encourage him to stay until she returned from her work at the restaurant. Rory had settled his affairs with Jack Reagan and had in his wallet a check for $1,750 more than he had expected. It was eight o'clock and he decided to have supper at Nick's. He selected a table, which he thought would be served by Sheila, so that he might chat with her. He lingered over his meal in order to get a word with her now and then, and when Sheila brought her own supper he beckoned to her to lay it at his table.

"I've missed you, Miss Kildare, these two months," he said.

"Ah, ye had no time to think of me, what with all the training ye had to do," she replied with a smile.

"It was thinking of you that helped me to get into shape to win. I thought a lot about you while I was away. I didn't know you had gone to work and that Old Tom had quit Tim. I'm sorry for that."

"The work didn't suit my father," she said in defense of him.

"Work of any kind that is honest ought not to hurt anybody," retorted Rory.

"I didn't say it hurt him."

"Well, it ought to suit him then."

Truth to tell, Rory had seen through Old Tom and his mighty

pretensions. "It's a shame you have to be doing this."

"Any kind of work that's honest ought to suit anybody," she replied, paraphrasing his own words. "But not for a girl like you."

"Oh, it's been all right. Nick's not so bad to work for, after ye know yer job."

"I just settled for the fight and it's a right good nest egg I've got left more than I expected out of it. Reagan is a fair manager all right."

"And will ye be keeping up yer fighting? Yer mother says she'd like to have you quit."

"Oh, mother's been saying that all these years, but she wants me to do what is best. I don't know yet," he went on seriously. "I stood up well in the fight with Campeau, but these young fellows have got something that I lost when I was a kid at the game. I've about come to the conclusion that I'm through."

"An' ye'll not fight any more? Oh, that would be grand!"

"Would you care, Sheila?"

"Of course, I'd care. Why, I think it would be wonderful if you could get into business yourself or with yer brother, Tim, just like ye talked that day."

"You remember then our ride? I wondered if you did. I was very happy that day."

It was beautiful, the sunset an all, missed Sheila.

"I'd like to take you again, some time. And, how about the West End Club's big shindig, the dance, I mean. Will you go with me?"

He asked, his eyes bright with anticipation. "We'll have a great time."

"I'm sorry but I've already promised Emmett."

"Oh," and the lilt in Rory's voice faded.

"You see, he asked me some time ago."

"But I couldn't. I was away."

"An' I told him yes. Will you be coming?"

"Oh, I always take Mother and Dad. They know all the old timers, the real old timers, you know, and it gives them a chance to meet them again. They wouldn't miss it for anything."

"Then I'll see you."

"And will you dance with me?"

"Of course, I will."

After Sheila had finished they walked slowly homeward and went down as far as the new steamship docks, where they could see the lights on an ocean going vessel that was moored there waiting to sail on the next day. The New Jersey shore was alive with the glimmering lights of automobile and trolley cars.

"There's some mighty nice flats a bit farther north there," remarked Rory. "I know some friends who live over there. Once I wanted the folks to move over there, but they like the neighborhood they've been living in. The rents are nearly as cheap as here and the streets are clean and there are trees and grass on the lawns in front of the smaller houses. It's a nice for young couples just starting out."

"It would be nice for Emmett and me then, wouldn't it? Emmett's now changed now an' he says he has a fine chance."

"You and Emmett Murtough engaged?"

"Well, we had planned it a long, long time ago, and when he changed for the better I agreed."

Rory said no more on the way home and his silence embarrassed Sheila into silence also. At the door where they parted Rory said:

"Well, I'll see you at the dance."

"Oh, of course. Give my love to yer mother."

Sheila turned up the stairs, but it seemed to Rory, who listened to her footfalls, that her feet must have turned to lead.

At the West End Club there was much talk and planning of the coming dance. All the active workers of the district had been enlisted to do their share to make it a huge success. Clocker took advantage of the fact that most of his men were there to call them into meeting, and he told them of his plans to transport the entire shipload of contraband on the following Sunday night. Enough trucks would be furnished to do the job, and he appointed Dixon in charge and Devin first lieutenant in the enterprise. It was their business to learn how many vehicles would be required, to obtain the services of drivers and guards and to schedule the routes over which each truck should speed to New York.

"I'll take Murtough with me if it's all right," said Devin. "He appears to be a pretty handy fellow."

"He stood up all right in that trouble we had with Stevens," commented Dixon. "I think he's a good man."

"I'll speak to him then; he ought to be in later."

Murtough did not come in. At that very hour he was crouching in the underbrush outside of Clocker's storage house on Long Island with Schermer and his two companions.

CHARLES M. DAY

SEEKS G. O. P. NOMINATION

Pierre, S. D., Oct. 25.—(UP)—Charles M. Day, publisher of the Sioux Falls, S. D., Argus-Leader, and former member of the state board of charities and corrections, has announced his candidacy for the republican nomination for governor.

Today's Comforts in "Log Cabin" Such as Daniel Boone Never Saw

Shades of Daniel Boone and Davy Crockett! No frontier privations are hinted in this luxurious log house, in a woods section at Southold, Long Island. The massive logs of which this unusual house was built were selected from standing trees in the Adirondacks.

Turkish rugs serve where hooked rugs or even bare floors sufficed in an earlier day. Handsome antique furniture graces rooms where rough chairs and tables, hewn from wilderness trees, did duty in the crude predecessor of this up-to-the-split-second home.

Crettoned chairs and couches lend comfort in rooms where glistening glass, colorful draperies and interesting pottery mark final transition from the huts of our pioneering great-grandfathers.

When winter comes and thickly falling snows invite to outdoor recreation, the comfort demanded by today's householder is even more apparent in this "backwoods" habitation.

Snow, blown by the frigid winds from Long Island Sound, forms no miniature drifts beneath loose-hung eaves, nor do draughty nooks hint the hardships of ancestors who shivered about an inadequate fireplace. Heat, too, is as modern as the house's see-machine and radio. An oil-burner

HEDDA HOYT TELLS ABOUT PATOU MODELS

By HEDDA HOYT

Paris, (UP)—If it is true that American styles generally originate in Paris, then it is likewise true that most of our styles originate with Jean Patou. No other couturier in Paris so thoroughly understands the American woman's tastes and certainly no other Parisian seems to design solely with the American woman's figure in mind.

If one word can describe the charm of Patou's models, that word is silhouette! I am always greatly impressed by the simplicity of most of his gowns and ensembles, a simplicity achieved by perfect slender lines softened by flowing feminine draperies. The American buyer may purchase but one Patou model but this model will be copied and re-copied, carried out in a variety of colors and fabrics and accepted as the general American silhouette from New York to San Francisco.

It is difficult, after reviewing several hundred Patou gowns and ensembles to give an adequate description of any one of them. However, the general ideas brought out by Patou this fall are as follows:

Hemlines are invariably irregular usually with flaring movement from the hips. Flares are achieved by circular godets, flowing panels, partially stitched pleats or semi-circular panels which have one edge attached to the skirt, the other flowing loose. Skirt skirts usually have one panel of semi-attached type falling at the left front side with a similar matching panel at the opposite rear side of the skirt. A rear shoulder panel often completes the double panel effect at the rear of the gown. Thus, a great many afternoon and evening gowns of simple lines have three panels, one at the left-front side of the skirt and one at the rear of the skirt on the opposite side, matched by the shoulder panel.

Patou is especially fond of diagonal lines for bodies. Often two-surfaced material is used with the reversible side forming horizontal stripes upon the bodice. Stripes run from one shoulder to the opposite hip. Snuggles of hipline is always apparent in Patou's models. Waistlines are suggested by minor fabric details as by the attachment panels, or by the close clustering of the diagonal bodice pleats, or by snug hip draperies.

There is a tendency to raise the waistline in front in some models although the long waist continues to the hipline which suggests the waist in most cases.

Very little embroidery of elaboration other than self-fabric trimming is noticed among Patou's models. Much satin and velvet is used for gowns of afternoon and evening type.

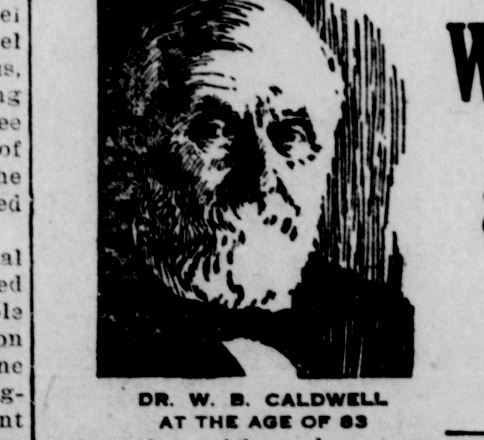

Only a few evening models are beaded. Much black lace and many black lace and chiffon dinner gowns are shown. Black is used more frequently than color in the entire Patou display.

MICKIE SAYS:

IT'S HARD TO MAKE FOLKS UNDERSTAND SOMETIMES THAT WE CAN'T PRINT HALF A DOZEN HANDSOME VERY MUCH CHEAPER THAN A HUNDRED BUT IT'S JUST AS MUCH WORK TO SET THE TYPE AND PUT IT ON THE PRESS FOR ONE AS FOR A HUNDRED, SO WE GOTTA CHARGE MOST AS MUCH. THAT'S WHY.

Countless girls and women now know how foolish and needless it is to "purge" and "physic" themselves to avoid sick headache, dizziness, biliousness, sallow skin, colds, or ery. There is a tendency to raise the waistline in front in some models although the long waist continues to the hipline which suggests the waist in most cases.

Very little embroidery of elaboration other than self-fabric trimming is noticed among Patou's models. Much satin and velvet is used for gowns of afternoon and evening type.

SYNOPSIS

Sheila Kildare and her father emigrate to America to follow Emmett Murtough, to whom she is betrothed. Neither Kildare nor Murtough hold steady jobs and Sheila works as a waitress. Her only friends are the family of Rory O'Shea, a professional boxer, whose kindness interests her. Murtough joins a band of bootleggers and, influenced by a cabaret girl, reveals a plan to move $150,000 worth of contraband. He enlists with the rivals to betray the hiding place.

"Listen, I understand, from what we have learned about you, that you and this little girl are good friends—in fact, you'd both like to get married and get a good start in a business, worth while. Well, here's your chance. Do this one job and you've got the money to marry and to settle down in a legitimate business. It's a chance not many fellows get in this game," he added. "How about it?"

"And if you don't want to play that way, we'll turn you up to Clocker within an hour," Murtough did not realize that if they did, it would tip off their own plans. He sat dumbly for several minutes, then threw out his hands and said: "All right. You win and I'll play square with you; but it's the first crooked deal I ever put over."

They decided that Murtough had better sleep in the apartment there until time to get up and drive to the Long Island rendezvous. Another inner bedroom connected with that occupied by Schermer, and Murtough was assigned to that. There was no door leading to the hall and the window was seven stories above the street. Murtough sat himself down to reflections on the gift of eternal silence.

"You and Emmett Murtough engaged?"

CHAPTER XI

Planning the "Double-Cross"

Sheila had not seen Rory O'Shea since his victory over Campeau at the Garden. She had avoided Mrs. O'Shea, too, because she felt that she might be embarrassed if she visited Rory's mother, and he were to be home when she called. She felt instinctively that Rory admired her even though she had not heard from him directly during his stay at the training camp. Memory of the long automobile ride brought back many pleasant recollections of this becoming young man, but now that she had given her word definitely to Emmett Murtough she felt she must put such thoughts from her.

Rory had called at the Kildare apartment one night but Sheila was not at home and Old Tom did not encourage him to stay until she returned from her work at the restaurant. Rory had settled his affairs with Jack Reagan and had in his wallet a check for $1,750 more than he had expected. It was eight o'clock and he decided to have supper at Nick's. He selected a table, which he thought would be served by Sheila, so that he might chat with her. He lingered over his meal in order to get a word with her now and then, and when Sheila brought her own supper he beckoned to her to lay it at his table.

"I've missed you, Miss Kildare, these two months," he said.

"Ah, ye had no time to think of me, what with all the training ye had to do," she replied with a smile.

"It was thinking of you that helped me to get into shape to win. I thought a lot about you while I was away. I didn't know you had gone to work and that Old Tom had quit Tim. I'm sorry for that."

"The work didn't suit my father," she said in defense of him.

"Work of any kind that is honest ought not to hurt anybody," retorted Rory.

"I didn't say it hurt him."

"Well, it ought to suit him then," Truth, to tell, Rory had seen through Old Tom and his mighty

pretensions. "It's a shame you have to be doing this."

"Any kind of work that's honest ought to suit anybody," she replied, paraphrasing his own words.

"But not for a girl like you."

"Oh, it's been all right. Nick's not so bad to work for, after ye know yer job."

"I just settled for the fight and it's a right good nest egg I've got left, more than I expected out of it. Reagan is a fair manager all right."

"And will ye be keeping up yer fighting? Yer mother says she'd like to have you quit."

"Oh, mother's been saying that all these years, but she wants me to do what's best. I don't know yet," he went on seriously. "I stood up well in the fight with Campeau, but these young fellows have got something that I lost when I was a kid at the game. I've about come to the conclusion that I'm through."

"An' ye'll not fight any more? Oh, that would be grand!"

"Would you care, Sheila?"

"Of course, I'd care. Why, I think it would be wonderful if you could get into business yourself or with yer brother, Tim, just like ye talked that day."

"You remember then our ride? I wondered if you did. I was very happy that day."

"It was beautiful, the sunset an' all," mused Sheila.

"I'd like to take you again, some time. And, how about the West End Club's big shindig, the dance, I mean. Will you go with me?" he asked, his eyes bright with anticipation. "We'll have a great time."

"I'm sorry but I've already promised Emmett."

"Oh, and the lit in Rory's voice failed."

"You see, he asked me some time ago."

"But I couldn't. I was away."

"An' I told him yes. Will you be coming?"

"Oh, I always take Mother and Dad. They know all the old timers, the real old timers, you know, and it gives them a chance to meet them again. They wouldn't miss it for anything."

"Then I'll see you."

"And will you dance with me?"

"Of course, I will."

After Sheila had finished they walked slowly homeward and went down as far as the new steamship docks, where they could see the lights on an ocean going vessel that was moored there waiting to sail on the next day. The New Jersey shore was alive with the glimmering lights of automobiles and trolley cars.

"There's some mighty nice flats a bit farther north there," remarked Rory. "I know some friends who live over there. Once I wanted the folks to move over there, but they like the neighborhood they've been living in. The rents are nearly as cheap as here and the streets are clean and there are trees and grass on the lawns in front of the smaller houses. It's nice for young couples just starting out."

"It would be nice for Emmett an' me then, wouldn't it? Emmett's so changed now an' he says he has a fine chance."

"You and Emmett Murtough engaged?"

"Well, we had planned it a long, long time ago, and when he changed for the better I agreed."

Rory said no more on the way home and his silence embarrassed Sheila into silence also. At the door where they parted Rory said: "Well, I'll see you at the dance."

"Oh, of course. Give my love to yer mother."

Sheila turned up the stairs, but it seemed to Rory, who listened to her footfalls, that her feet must have turned to lead.

At the West End Club there was much talk and planning of the coming dance. All the active workers of the district had been enlisted to do their share to make it a huge success. Clocker took advantage of the fact that most of his men were there to call them into meeting, and he told them of his plans to transport the entire shipload of contraband on the following Sunday night. Enough trucks would be furnished to do the job, and he appointed Dixon in charge and Devlin first lieutenant in the enterprise. It was their business to learn how many vehicles would be required, to obtain the services of drivers and guards and to schedule the routes over which each truck should speed to New York.

"I'll take Murtough with me if it's all right," said Devlin. "He appears to be a pretty handy fellow."

"He stood up all right in that trouble we had with Stevens," commented Dixon. "I think he's a good man."

"I'll speak to him then; he ought to be in later."

Murtough did not come in. At that very hour he was crouching in the underbrush outside of Clocker's storage house on Long Island with Schermer and his two companions.

CHARLES M. DAY SEEKS G. O. P. NOMINATION

Pierre, S. D., Oct. 25.—(UP)—Charles M. Day, publisher of the Sioux Falls, S. D., Argus-Leader, and former member of the state board of charities and corrections, has announced his candidacy for the republican nomination for governor.

Today's Comforts in "Log Cabin" Such as Daniel Boone Never Saw

"ROUGHING IT" TODAY

Shades of Daniel Boone and Davy Crockett! No frontier privations are hinted in this luxurious log house, in a woods section at Southold, Long Island. The massive logs of which this unusual house was built were selected from standing trees in the Adirondacks.

Turkish rugs serve where hooked rugs or even bare floors sufficed in an earlier day. Handsome antique furniture graces rooms where rough chairs and tables, hewn from wilderness trees, did duty in the crude predecessors of this up-to-the-split-second home.

Crettoned chairs and couches lend comfort in rooms where glistening glass, colorful draperies and interesting pottery mark final transition from the huts of our pioneering great-grandfathers.

When winter comes and thickly falling snows invite to outdoor recreation, the comfort demanded by today's householder is even more apparent in this "backwoods" habitation.

Snow, blown by the frigid winds from Long Island Sound, forms no miniature drifts beneath loose-hung doors, nor do draughty rooms hint the hardships of ancestors who shivered about an inadequate fireplace.

Heat, too, is as modern as the house's ice-machine and radio. An oil-burner mocks the outdoors and puts Florida in every room.

"The owner adopted the heating method used in a great many more modest homes," observed C. U. Williams, Bloomington, Ill., president of the Williams Oil-O-Matic Heating Corporation, largest manufacturer of oil burners in the world. "It is in 500,000 American homes, and 250,000 more will adopt it by the end of the year."

Only a few evening models are beaded. Much black lace and many black lace and chiffon dinner gowns are shown. Black is used more frequently than color in the entire Patou display.

MICKIE SAYS:

IT'S HARD TO MAKE FOLKS UNDERSTAND SOMETHING THAT WE CAN'T PRINT HALF A DOZEN HANDBILLS VERY MUCH CHEAPER THAN A HUNDRED BUT IT'S JUST AS MUCH WORK TO SET THE TYPE AND PUT IT ON THE PRESS FOR ONE AS FOR A HUNDRED, SO WE GOTTA CHARGE MOST AS MUCH. THASS WHY

It is difficult, after reviewing several hundred Patou gowns and ensembles to give an adequate description of any one of them. However, the general ideas brought out by Patou this fall are as follows:

Hemlines are invariably irregular usually with flaring movement from the hips. Flares are achieved by circular godets, flowing panels, partially stitched pleats or semi-circular panels which have one edge attached to the skirt, the other flowing loose. Scant skirts usually have one panel of semi-attached type falling at the left front side with a similar matching panel at the opposite rear side of the skirt. A rear shoulder panel often completes the double panel effect at the rear of the gown. Thus, a great many afternoon and evening gowns of simple lines have three panels, one at the left-front side of the skirt and one at the rear of the skirt on the opposite side, matched by the shoulder panel.

Patou is especially fond of diagonal lines for bodices. Often two-surfaced material is used with the reversible side forming horizontal stripes upon the bodice. Stripes run from one shoulder to the opposite hip. Snuggles of hipline is always apparent in Patou's models. Waistlines are suggested by minor fabric details as, by the attachment panels, or by the close clustering of the diagonal bodice pleats, or by snug hip drapery. There is a tendency to raise the waistline in front in some models although the long waist continues to rule supreme. It is the snugness about the hipline which suggests the waist in most cases.

Very little embroidery of elaboration other than self-fabric trimming is noticed among Patou's models. Much satin and velvet is used for gowns of afternoon and evening type.

HEDDA HOYT TELLS ABOUT PATOU MODELS

By HEDDA HOYT

Paris, (UP)—If it is true that American styles generally originate in Paris, then it is likewise true that most of our styles originate with Jean Patou. No other couturier in Paris so thoroughly understands the American woman's tastes and certainly no other Parisian seems to design solely with the American woman's figure in mind.

If one word can describe the charm of Patou's models, that word is silhouette! I am always greatly impressed by the simplicity of most of his gowns and ensembles, a simplicity achieved by perfect slender lines softened by flowing feminine draperies. The American buyer may purchase but one Patou model but this model will be copied and re-copied, carried out in a variety of colors and fabrics and accepted as the general American silhouette from New York to San Francisco.

Countless girls and women now know how foolish and needless it is to "purge" and "physic" themselves to avoid sick headache, dizziness, biliousness, sallow skin, colds, or sour, gassy stomach.

They have found that Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin helps to establish natural bowel "regularity" even for those heretofore chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but, best of all, it never gripes, sickens or upsets the most delicate girl or woman. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and so pleasant that even a cross, feverish, bilious sick child gladly takes it.
